

Final Trip for Sen. Kennedy

NEW YORK (AP) — The centuries-old grandeur of a Roman Catholic requiem and the solemnity of a great cathedral betoken today eternal rest for Robert F. Kennedy as he goes to a grave near his brother's in Arlington National Cemetery.

President Johnson came from Washington for the funeral Mass at St. Patrick's Cathedral. Kennedy's body is being borne to Washington in a 21-car train carrying about 1,000 persons. The mahogany casket will rest on a foot-high platform, draped in red velvet.

Burial will reunite beneath the springtime green of Arlington the 42-year-old senator and President John F. Kennedy. Each died, less than five years apart, of an assassin's bullet.

A family spokesman said the senator's grave would be below and to the side of his brother's, in an open space near two Japanese magnolias.

Among the 2,100 persons invited to the funeral were representatives of at least 50 foreign nations. Condolences poured in from all over the world, just as they did Nov. 22, 1963—but this time to a different widow, for a different brother.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey led an official delegation of 69 senators and 40 representatives to the funeral. The House delegation is all 40 representatives from New York.

Chief Celebrant

Archbishop Terence J. Cooke of New York was selected as chief celebrant of the Requiem Mass. Only two months ago the archbishop and Sen. Kennedy were together in Atlanta at the funeral of the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., another whose life was forfeited to an assassin.

"We are all together in our bewilderment and grief in these days," Archbishop Cooke said in his eulogy. "Words are such inadequate messengers of consolation at this time."

"Our sense of shame and discouragement tears alone will not wash away," he said. "Somehow, by the grace of God, and with the strength that still lies deep within the soul of America, we must find the courage to take up again the laborious work to which Sen. Kennedy devoted all his energies: the building of a great and honorable nation."

"Especially in this hour, we must keep faith with America and her destiny, and we must not forsake our trust in one another."

Speaking of Kennedy, Archbishop Cooke said, "Gifted by nature to a rare degree, he might have sought a life less arduous, a manner of life that left more time for personal interest and for the enjoyment of the wonderful family with which God blessed him."

"Instead he chose the broader, more demanding challenge of public service, seeing it as an opportunity to build a better world for all his fellowmen. He died in the course of that service."

BULLETIN

NEW YORK (UPI)—A man with a gun was taken into custody at the main entrance of St. Patrick's Cathedral 15 minutes before President Johnson arrived for Sen. Robert F. Kennedy's funeral, police said.

They said the man was picked up during the routine search conducted by authorities at the huge bronze doors.

Police identified the man as a printer from Syracuse, N. Y., and refused to say anything more about him. He was taken to a nearby precinct for questioning.

The arrest was made so smoothly and so quietly that newsmen and others standing nearby were unaware of it. The arrest came to light during a routine check with police.

The final blessing over the sealed Kennedy casket was pronounced by Richard Cardinal Cushing, 72, an old friend of the Kennedy family. Ten cameramen were stationed in and around the cathedral for pooled television coverage by the three networks—just as they televised the services for President Kennedy.

The eldest son of Sen. Kennedy and his last surviving brother were among the pallbearers—Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts and Joseph Kennedy III, 15.

Other pallbearers were U.S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman; former Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara; Lord Harlech, former British ambassador to the United States, and former astronaut John Glenn.

Among the ushers, Pierre Salinger, former presidential press secretary; Kenneth O'Donnell, former White House aide; Paul Fay, former undersecretary of the Navy; Roosevelt Grier of the Los Angeles Rams professional football team and Rafer Johnson, former Olympic decathlon champion, both of whom helped seize the alleged assassin.

The funeral train arrives at Union Station in Washington at about 4:30 p.m. Six Navy pallbearers carry the coffin to the hearse for the 4.6 mile trip to Arlington, expected to take about 30 minutes at 10 miles an hour.

The cortege moves along First Street to Constitution Avenue, to Henry Bacon Drive, around the Lincoln Memorial and across Memorial Bridge to the cemetery. There will be a choir on the steps of the Lincoln Memorial.

Robert Kennedy was shot down by a Los Angeles assassin during a celebration early Wednesday of his victory in the California primary election, a step along a path he hoped would lead him to the White House. He died a day later of brain damage.

"There's too much red in our American flag, too much fire, too much passion, bloodshed and hate," Bishop Fulton J. Sheen told a newsmen after praying at Robert Kennedy's bier.

Just as today belonged to the great and the powerful in their tribute to Robert Kennedy, Friday belonged to the humble.

In life, Kennedy had stretched out his hand to Americans whose help he asked to attain the presidency. By the tens and tens of thousands Friday, they reached back toward him, as he lay sealed inside his casket with his shattered dream of national leadership.

6,000 An Hour

All day long, Kennedy's body lay in state before the main altar of St. Patrick's as mourners filed past at the rate of 6,000 an hour—in the rosy hue of dawn, the searing heat and humidity of midday, the gentle purple of early dusk and the deep moonlit velvet of a spring night.

"I feel a little better now," said a young woman, Irene Crane of Willingboro, N.J., one of more than 151,000 who moved past the bier, running a finger or a hand reflectively and sadly along the polished mahogany coffin.

Edward Kennedy, last survivor of the four Kennedy brothers, kept vigil over his brother's body through most of Thursday night and early Friday.

So Little Time Left With Him

By JEAN HELLER

NEW YORK (AP) — They kept returning to pray at his catafalque. They kept returning to stand vigil at his side. There was, for Robert F. Kennedy's family, so little time left with him.

Each time they came Friday they walked solemnly through thousands of mourners whose names they did not know to reach the casket that held Kennedy's body at the flood-lit center of St. Patrick's Cathedral.

Ethel ... Rose ... Jacqueline ... Eunice ... Lee ... Edward ... Joseph ... Robert Jr. ... Kathleen.

They never seemed to notice the crowds, so engrossed were they in their own grief.

Ethel Kennedy, widow of the murdered senator, was there twice on Friday. She came first at midday with three of her 10 children, Kathleen, 16; Joseph, 15, and Robert Jr., 14.

As she entered the cathedral, dressed in black, she immediately looked toward the African mahogany casket and it seemed to transfix her. She never took her eyes from it as she walked down the aisle to a pew. Her gaze did not waver when a priest stopped to whisper a few words to her.

She looked away only to bow her head and pray.

Girl Was Sobbing

Mrs. Kennedy was back again at 8:30 p.m. with her sister-in-law, Patricia Kennedy Lawford, and eight children. They stayed briefly in the fourth pew. One of the little girls was sobbing.

Robert Jr., came three times, twice to stand a 30-minute vigil by the casket and once with some family friends. As he sat with his friends in the cathedral late in the evening, his eyes cast downward, one of the thousands of visitors to the catafalque screamed as she approached it. If the boy heard, he gave no sign.

His older brother, Joseph, came at least once, also to stand vigil.

Jacqueline Kennedy, who 4½ years ago lost her husband by an assassin's hand, came three times. She, of all the Kennedys, was the most openly emotional.

When she first came at midday, just as Ethel Kennedy left, Mrs. John F. Kennedy went to the casket, genuflected before it, then knelt at a pew to pray.

She momentarily rested her head on the back of the pew in front of her. When she raised her head slightly, she held a gloved hand over her eyes.

She was back again late in the afternoon with her own two children, John Jr. and Caroline.

Jackie Returns

And Jacqueline Kennedy returned still another time, early today, with her sister, Princess Lee Radziwill. When she reached the coffin, Mrs. Kennedy knelt and said a brief prayer, both of her hands on the coffin.

Robert Kennedy's brother, Edward, spent a night-long vigil alone by the coffin on Thursday. He returned again and alone Friday afternoon.

Rose Kennedy, the mother, twice visited the third of her four sons to die an early, violent death. Mrs. Kennedy first came before 8 a.m. and sat unnoticed in a pew near the main altar for nearly an hour. She came again in the late afternoon and, looking very tired, stayed only briefly.

Joseph P. Kennedy, the father who has been incapacitated by a stroke for several years, remained at the family home in Hyannis Port, Mass.

Sirhan Is Arraigned On Charge of Murder

By BILL STALL

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sirhan Bishara Sirhan has been arraigned on a charge of murdering Sen. Robert F. Kennedy in a hearing held behind an unprecedented wall of security.

Sirhan, 24, calm and composed, sat Friday in the chapel of Los Angeles County men's jail as a deputy district attorney read the murder indictment, returned an hour and two minutes earlier by the county grand jury.

The indictment said the slight, olive-complexioned native of Jordan did "wilfully, unlawfully, feloniously and with malice aforethought murder Robert Francis Kennedy."

The judge ordered Sirhan to return to court June 28 to enter a plea and agreed to a defense request that he be examined by two psychiatrists before that date.

Told of Rights

Superior Court Judge Arthur L. Alarcon, using the blonde hardwood chapel altar as a temporary court bench, spelled out for Sirhan his constitutional right to a fair, speedy trial.

Then, Alarcon ordered all police, attorneys, court officials and witnesses to say nothing about the case or release any evidence that might in any way jeopardize Sirhan's right to a fair trial.

"Any violation, he warned, will result in 'swift action' in the form of a contempt of court citation.

Alarcon himself, the 19 unarmed deputy sheriffs who stood watch during the 40-minute arraignment and others among the approximately 200 persons admitted to the arraignment, most of them newsmen, were searched thoroughly before they were taken past a maze of security checkpoints to the third-floor jail chapel.

A card handed to them read: "No cameras, potential weapons or electronic devices of any description will be permitted in the spectators section of the courtroom." The order came from the judge.

Sirhan was escorted in a wheel chair into the 400 capacity chapel by four sheriff's deputies. His left ankle and left index finger still were bandaged from injuries suffered Wednesday in the scuffle at the Ambassador Hotel after a volley of eight shots felled Kennedy and injured five bystanders. Indictments also were returned Friday charging Sirhan with assault with intent to commit murder.

He said no more than a dozen words during the hearing.

Alarcon asked him if his true name was Sirhan Bishara Sirhan.

"Yes sir," he said. "It is Sirhan" not "Seer-han."

He indicated he could not afford to hire his own attorney and would be satisfied with appointment of a public defender, Wilbur Littlefield.

Later, A. L. Wirin, an attorney for the American Civil Liberties Union, suggested the judge ask Sirhan directly if he had any objection to being arraigned in jail, rather than at the Hall of Justice two miles away, the scene of the day-long grand jury hearing.

"No, your honor," he said.

Although police had described Sirhan as composed and cool, Wirin said he was anguished when told the news Kennedy had died Thursday, about 25 hours after he was shot in the head with a .22-caliber revolver.

Kennedy was celebrating his victory in the California presidential primary when shot.

Polka Dot Girl Surrenders

Just as the grand jury was formally charging Sirhan with murder, a woman who identified herself as the "girl in the polka dot dress" sought by Los Angeles police called sheriff's officers and said she wanted to talk to them.

Kathy Fulmer, 19, a dancer, told Sheriff Peter J. Pitchess and newsmen she had seen Sirhan watching Kennedy before the shooting, heard the shots, and then rushed from the Ambassador's Embassy Room in near-hysteria shouting, "They shot him!"

A Kennedy campaign worker had told police she heard a young blonde woman say, "We shot him."

Miss Fulmer, from Los Angeles, said she did not know Sirhan. She later was released after questioning.

The murder charge lodged against Sirhan in the case, officially numbered A233421, "The people against Sirhan Bishara Sirhan," carries a possible death sentence in the gas chamber at San Quentin Prison.

But court challenges of California's death penalty have suspended all executions in the state indefinitely. Seventy-seven men are on death row.

In California, a death sentence carries an automatic appeal to the State Supreme Court.

Arrest King Murder Suspect

WASHINGTON (AP) — James Earl Ray, chief suspect in the slaying of Martin Luther King Jr., has been arrested in London, Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark announced today.

Ray, object of an intensive manhunt for two months, was arrested by Scotland Yard detectives as he passed through British immigration offices for a flight to Brussels, Clark said.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said Ray is being held under maximum security conditions on a passport violation.

Hoover said Ray was armed with a fully loaded pistol when taken into custody at 11:15 a.m. London time, today.

He was traveling under the name of Ramon George Sneyd and had two Canadian passports in that name in his possession, Hoover said.

Hoover said the search for Ray, named in an FBI complaint as having entered into a conspiracy to shoot King, covered all 50 states, Canada, Mexico, Portugal, England and other countries.

King, 39, and a 1964 Nobel Peace Prize winner, was standing on the balcony of the Lorraine Motel April 4 in Memphis, Tenn.

The POWER of FAITH

By WOODY ISHMAEL

David, Israel's greatest king, was a man of many virtues and accomplishments. He was a poet, musician, a courageous and resourceful warrior, and a brilliant and wise king with a deep concern for his people.

Born in Bethlehem between 1040 and 1030 B.C., he spent his early years tending sheep before entering the court of Saul, the first king of Israel. He was recommended to Saul as a fine musician who could soothe his moods of depression. The many stories of David's faith and leadership have provided inspiration for centuries.

When David became king after the death of Saul he brought all the tribes of Israel under his rule through military and diplomatic victories, and his long and successful reign gave Israel national unity. His psalms and devout faith have been of great religious significance, not only to Judaism but to Christianity and Islam as well.

"Give unto the Lord, O ye mighty,
Give unto the Lord glory and strength.
Give unto the Lord the glory due his name;
Worship the Lord in the beauty of holiness..."

Departs for Orient Chaplaincy

The Rev. James F. Lover, CSSR, professor of pastoral theology and canon law at Mount St. Alphonsus, Esopus, left this week for a 10-day visit with his elderly parents in Nanuet, prior to embarking for the Orient where he has volunteered to work as chaplain on the hospital ship SS Hope anchored in the harbor of Colombo, Ceylon.

The SS Hope's mission in Ceylon marks the hospital ship's first return to Asia since her maiden voyage in 1960. In that year and in 1961, HOPE visited both Indonesia and South Vietnam to conduct medical teaching and treatment programs. Since then, HOPE has conducted similar programs in Peru, Ecuador, Guinea, Nicaragua, and last year, Colombia.

REV. JAMES LOVER

Redemptorists have been inter-preter-chaplains aboard the HOPE during the past several years in Latin America.

In Ceylon, the HOPE staff of 150 physicians, dentists, nurses, pharmacists and technologists work directly with their Ceylonese counterparts in classroom, laboratory and ward aboard the ship and in hospitals, medical schools and clinics ashore. Father Lover's duties will not involve that of interpreter since English is spoken and understood by many of the educated in Ceylon.

After his two-month chaplaincy aboard the SS HOPE, Father Lover hopes to return via the other side of the world. He will be on hand to resume class at the Redemptorist seminary here at Esopus the first week of September.

Pride in America

No dues. No assessments. No profit. Just faith and pride in country. And eagerness to show the flag on all proper occasions and stand behind it.

Those are the convictions upon which a new and, we think, superbly invoked organization has been formed—the Pride in America Committee.

The national honorary chairman is the soldier who has given a lifetime of service to his country, Dwight D. Eisenhower, the former President who was also the Supreme Allied Commander in Europe and led the forces of freedom against Fascist Italy and Nazi Germany.

The national chairman is Fred L. Dixon of Washington. A board of directors of distinguished Americans is being formed, and will soon be announced.

"The Pride in America Committee was established to counterbalance the wave of lawlessness, violence, flag-burnings and similar activities, and to provide a rallying point for citizens who still have faith and pride in this nation and its flag," Dixon stated.

While it will sponsor no marches, parades or demonstrations, the committee will make Flag Day June 14, and all patriotic holidays thereafter, occasions for showing pride in America by displaying the flag and increasing respect for it by honoring it.

On Flag Day, June 14, the committee asks Americans to clip small flags to their automobile radio antennas, to wear little metal lapel flags on suits or dresses, to display the flag on homes and places of business, and otherwise to show how they cherish the flag that stands for their freedom, liberty and independence.

These outward signs of loyalty are very good, but should be abetted by being well informed and able to overcome the false but clever arguments of our critics, enemies, and disloyal fellow Americans. It is essential to flood our country not only with flags, but with the true facts of our great, generous, merciful and good role in the world, as compared to Red scheming, acquisitive, merciless and cruel activity, or we, like other countries, could be taken from within by words which tear down our flags and our pride.

Hanoi's Suicidal Attacks

In an effort to achieve victories to support its negotiators in Paris, North Vietnam has lost more than 100,000 killed in action so far this year in suicidal attacks, Gen. William C. Westmoreland reported.

American deaths in the two months since President Johnson set the stage for the Paris talks with his March 31 cutback of bombing the North, have also increased, reaching a total of 3,330.

North Vietnam's objective is to destroy the Government of South Vietnam and develop an image of strength to persuade the United States of the futility of its efforts, Westmoreland said. The enemy is paying a fearful price for these aims—and we are also losing men at an increased pace during this "talk and fight" phase.

Comparison of the fighting during the two years of negotiations in Korea may help one to understand the present situation. Then, the Chinese and North Koreans took a loss of more than 100,000 in the spring of 1951 in less than one month, in an effort to soften the United States and its allies. The same disregard of life is being shown by North Vietnam now.

To Americans, such losses are senseless. To Orientals, they are the price of the face with which to establish their negotiating positions.

Student Rebellions

President Johnson was speaking of student rebellions. He referred to the problems several modern Presidents have had with rebellious youth in recent weeks—in France, Germany, Poland, Czechoslovakia and the United States.

"Those who glorify violence are really the best friends the status quo ever had," Johnson argued. "They provoke a powerful conservative reaction among millions of people. They inspire, among many people, a blind allegiance to things as they are—even when these things should be changed. But though they are great in volume, these young totalitarians of opinion are few in number among America's graduating classes this spring."

The President was making the commencement address at Texas Christian University at Fort Worth. He hoped America's youth would address itself to the all-important question of how—how education can be improved, how medical care costs can be reduced, how the nation can take advantage of the technological gap, how to overcome poverty and the threat of nuclear war.

Such problem-tackling is surely more worthy of modern youth than the aims of those extremists who seek to rule or wreck our great universities. The President rightly called students to use their great moral energy to build the universities, not wreck them.

How About Another Transplant?

Kennedy, Man of Controversy; Warm, Tough, Loved and Feared

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
NEA Washington Correspondent

Robert F. Kennedy, the fourth of his family to be struck by tragedy, has moved across the American political scene for a decade in the very eye of a storm of controversy.

Some elements that make him a storm center can be fathomed and some cannot. He is loved and admired, hated and feared more passionately perhaps than has been true of any man in this country's public life in modern times—even Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Professional poll-takers who sketch out candidate profiles long ago learned that this churning, driving man of 42, with his craggy face and unruly shock of hair is seen by Americans as a puzzling mosaic of contrasting impressions.

The catalogue of negatives is astonishing—"ruthless, too ambitious, erratic, unreliable, too emotional, trading on his late brother's name, using his family's wealth to win high office, questing after public adulation."

Yet countless Americans see him as warm, friendly, aggressive in pursuit of useful political and national goals, a fitting successor to his martyred brother, John Kennedy.

Robert Kennedy himself unquestionably has been stunned this spring at the depth and breadth of the animosity he seems to stir in so many quarters. On a campaign airplane he said to me as he has to others.

"I'm the only candidate who has ever managed to unite business, labor, the organization Democrats and the intellectuals. They're all against me."

A few days later, a key figure in the California political world offered this in partial explanation of the sturdy opposition to Kennedy within the leading elements of his own party:

"Politicians do not like men who are tougher than they are and Bob Kennedy is tougher than they."

Ruthlessness Charged

When he campaigned for the U. S. Senate in New York four years ago, I asked him how he reacted to the then-already-familiar charge of ruthlessness. He thought for a long while before answering:

"I think that is what happens to you when you try to do things."

That comment may be close to the core of it. Reporters traveling with him on the 1968 primary trail have been struck by the fact that the fear of him persists among many Americans even as he talks more conservatively than his rival, Sen. Eugene McCarthy, but yet talks of doing things to alter the nation's course in war and in its troubled cities.

One perceptive observer feels that this image of the driving activist is enough alone to alarm many Americans who may see the need for some change but do not want too much of it. Says this man:

"Looking at the other candidates, in both parties, these people do not think their election as president would affect the course of events too drastically. But they are pretty sure that if Bob Kennedy were in the White House their world would be different—in ways they can hardly guess."

An old friend and former close associate of Kennedy's recently told me flatly that he believes the label of "ruthless" was indeed applicable to some of the senator's behavior. Yet he feels that in some ways this charge, made too sweepingly and repeated too often by people who have had no experience with such behavior from him, works in his favor as he campaigns for the nation.

"When they see him in person," says this friend, "many people decide that he isn't all that ruthless."

A good many reporters evidently have been thus affected. Some who have joined his traveling troupe with a certain built-in hostility toward Kennedy have been transformed into stout admirers after a week or two of close contact.

At intimate range, many find him very warm, considerate of their needs, witty, tough but often quite generous in his judgments of others in public life, genuinely fond of people.

In California not long ago, he quietly told some reporters he would be happy to have them bring their wives along on the press plane to ease the hardship of long separation. Several times, he confided to newsmen that he is deeply fond of the young idealists who have flocked to McCarthy's banner and hopes to win some of them to his side if his own candidacy flourishes.

Observers Amazed

Observers who have never watched him campaign in person are always amazed by the easy, quick rapport he develops with a crowd. His bantering exchanges are so continuous that sometimes his appearances have the air of an audience participation show on television.

To a huge, noisy, racially mixed throng in an auditorium at Camden, N.J., he shouted:

"How many of you ever heard of Charles Croft? (long pause) None of you, none of you! Well, he was the Earl of Camden for whom this city was named."

Usually, the lighthearted chatter evokes laughter and warm response. It even works on frosty audiences like the City Club in Portland, Ore., where business and professional leaders found themselves laughing in spite of themselves. They broke up when he said:

"Somebody just took a poll of 500 businessmen and I got one vote. I understand they're looking for him."

Though Kennedy can be sharp and short-tempered, he often deals with hecklers and hostile signs in crowds with great tolerance and wit.

In Omaha a bull-headed man shouting at him finally forced the senator to halt his speech. He turned to look at his wife, Ethel, and said with a smile:

"Ethel, I'm very sorry to have to tell you this, but I'm afraid the vote in Omaha is not going to be unanimous."

All this good-spirited campaigning makes its inevitably strong impression upon thousands and thousands of Americans who feel the touch of his charismatic presence. Those who pore over election statistics find a definite link between his personal travel routes and healthy votes for him in primary tests.

Nevertheless, it does not wipe out the negative impressions which cling tenaciously to him. With some people, including some prominent figures in his chosen party, the distaste for Kennedy seems so great that he cannot win no matter what he does.

A few years ago he met privately in New York with some strong-minded Negro leaders, including Prof. Kenneth Clark and author James Baldwin. Reports later filtered out that he had shown an appalling ignorance of the Negro's plight and seemed unable to communicate effectively.

Today, his string of primary victories in such states as California, Nebraska, Indiana and the District of Columbia has demonstrated he has an 80 to 90 per cent hold on the nation's troubled Negro citizenry.

The earlier criticism has died. Only to be replaced with new charges that he is "too close" to the Negroes in the turbulent racial struggle. Even McCarthy has made special note of Kennedy's identification with "blacks" votes, a clear reference to his immense Negro support.

Similarly, Kennedy was often chided in earlier years for having sided with young Americans. When McCarthy entered the presidential race, some of these young people flocked to him and launched what came to be known admiringly as the "children's crusade." Almost lost from sight was the fact, too, that when primary votes were counted, Kennedy actually was winning the support of people under 30 by margins up to 2 to 1 over McCarthy.

Twists of this sort suggested that, whatever his political future, he was never likely to escape being the storm center he has been for so long. It is the country's tragedy as well as his that he became a would-be assassin's target as he continued to move in the hurricane's eye of controversy.

Drew Pearson Says TV-Radio Networks Reap Big Profits From Public Airways

WASHINGTON—Most people have forgotten it, but former Sen. Clarence Dill of Washington is the chief author of the 1934 Communications Act regulating the thousands of TV and radio programs which the American public hears and sees daily.

"When we wrote the act," said Sen. Dill, "Senator White of Maine and I considered whether we should put a ceiling on profits. After all, the act provided for the use of air channels belonging to the public and the public had a right to be paid for them out of profits."

"However, we decided there wouldn't be any profits. That's why there is no requirement in the law for any rental of benefit to the public."

"If we had to do over again, the law would have been different," said former Sen. Dill, now retired and living in Spokane.

His words are significant in view of the stinging report issued by two members of the Federal Communications Commission, Kenneth Cox and Nicholas Johnson, pointing to the profits of the TV-radio industry.

Their survey, which was confined to Oklahoma, showed both tremendous profits and scanty public service. "The television industry averages about 100 per cent return on depreciated tangible investment and about 40 per cent on gross revenues," the two commissioners reported.

Who Will LBJ Appoint?

They found that only one of ten stations with around $16,000,000 gross devotes as much as two hours a week to local public affairs programs.

"There is not in the entire state a single regularly scheduled prime time program devoted to the presentation, analysis, or discussion of controversial issues of public importance in the state or in the community," reported Commissioners Cox and Johnson.

Despite the original opposition of J. Edgar Hoover and Rep. John Rooney of Brooklyn, Schauer finally sold some of his Republican colleagues on the bill and got it inserted in the crime bill. Even Ramsey Clark, the Attorney General, shied away from the institute of crime justice in deference to J. Edgar Hoover.

Essentially the institute would apply modern science to crime detection and crime prevention.

Most people don't realize it,

Yet the FCC renewed their licenses almost automatically. Cox and Johnson could have gone further if they had scrutinized the national TV-radio scene. If so, they would have discovered that network profits were among the highest in the nation. For the first half of 1967 the three networks racked up a total profit of $718,700,000 with CBS increasing its take by $55,436,800.

CBS has made so much money in recent years that it has difficulty investing its profits and has branched out into baseball, theatrics, educational book publishing and even guitar manufacturing.

Among other things, it owns the New York Yankees and "My Fair Lady."

All this presents a problem for President Johnson. He has an FCC commissioner to appoint this month. The FCC has been criticized in the past for enhancing Ladybird's stations in Texas. So the country will be watching to see whether LBJ appoints a forthright commissioner who watches the public interest or another patsy who promotes private profits.

Institute of Criminal Justice

Now that the Senate has hung so many Christmas tree amendments on the anti-crime bill, there's only one real section of the bill worth saving. That is the section providing for an "institute of criminal justice," pioneered by young Rep. James Schauer of the Bronx.

Rep. Schauer also proposes that the institute of criminal justice study the problems of crime prevention and apprehension.

Only 24 per cent of those who commit serious crimes are apprehended," says Schauer. "The problem is not so much conviction but first prevention, second apprehension."

"One very easy means of preventing crime is locking automobiles. Today there are 600,000 auto thefts a year, and one-half of the cars are stolen because keys were left in the lock. There are other means of preventing car thefts, such as locking the gear shift, locking the wheels. If these were employed, car thefts could be cut from 600,000 to 100,000."

Rep. Schauer has also proposed such modern techniques as a computer assignment of police cars.

"We spend millions every year in researching causes of muscular dystrophy, epilepsy and heart disease," says Schauer. "Why not spend a few millions in researching the causes of the disease of crime? So far we have spent almost nothing on this disease, its prevention, its cure or its means of apprehension."

Schauer has written a book, "To Walk the Streets Safely," to be published by Doubleday shortly.

Russia Becomes Exclusive Provider of Arms for India

By MARK GAYN
Chicago Daily News Service

NEW DELHI — The Soviet Union has become an all but exclusive provider of arms for India's growing military establishment.

Western informants here say the supplies have been especially massive in heavy artillery, fighter planes and air transport, but India has also acquired some naval equipment.

Soviet specialists are also supervising the building of three aircraft plants, including a very large one at Nasik, not far from Bombay. These plants are to turn out MIG-19s and the advanced MIG-21s.

The Indians do not allow visits to their military installations, and discourage inquiries, so it is not known how many Soviet military experts and advisers there may be in the country.

But the consensus is that the training of Indians who handle the new armaments is being done in the Soviet Union rather than here.

The armaments already acquired include some 100 MIG-21s. It is not known if India has yet received the three submarines signed for nearly two years ago.

The only real break in the Soviet monopoly on arms is being offered by the British built plant manufacturing the small and highly maneuverable Gnat jet fighter-interceptor in great favor with the Indian Air Force. The last known production figure for the plant was put at six planes a month.

The Russians arrived at their privileged position as the main arms merchants here almost by error. They began to supply weapons in 1964, in the belief they would be competing with the United States—a challenge they seemingly could not resist. But then it was discovered it was all a mistake. While the United States was willing to provide transport equipment and such, it would give India neither naval equipment for high performance planes.

Convinced at last it was not competing with the United States, Moscow still continued to provide arms—now as part of its policy to buttress India against China.

India has been in the market for arms ever since her disastrous war with China in the fall of 1962. The ease with which the Chinese penetrated the Indian defense, and their almost contemptuous withdrawal after they tasted victory, produced a traumatic effect here.

Indian officials say this debacle will never be repeated, for the entire military establishment has been expanded and vastly improved. With an estimated 1,000,000 men under arms, India is now believed to have the fourth largest military establishment in the world.

In the Indian mind, however, the Chinese threat is inseparable from the threat from Pakistan. India is pleased with the performance of her armed forces in the last "pocket war" with her Muslim neighbor, but she is convinced that there will be renewed clashes.

Moscow is believed to have India's pledge not to use her growing stock of modern Soviet arms against Pakistan.

The Soviet armament sales have been one by-product of the new closeness between Moscow and Delhi. Delhi has not been flaunting this new friendship with the Soviets in American faces. Indeed, there is a warm feeling for the United States, both in official and private circles, partly because it has been American grain (and some Canadian) that averted a famine here in 1966-67.

At the same time, it is widely felt that Delhi is increasingly leaning in Moscow's direction.

Star of Hope for Handicapped

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Three decades ago in Tokyo's Imperial Hotel, this reporter had the good fortune to meet and interview Helen Keller, who has just died at the age of 87.

This was an experience a man does not easily forget. It was not because of what this wonderful woman said. It was rather the look on her face, her reactions, her movements, her enthusiasm.

She was—then in her late 50s—as full of questioning curiosity as a three-year-old boy who is always tumbling over himself because of his eagerness to discover new things and to take them apart and understand them.

The things she did with her life, the happiness she lived and gave to others, the contributions she made, make it clear that those thousands of children born deaf as a result of the major German measles epidemic of several years back can, with sufficient love and training, become highly useful citizens.

The same can be said for those thousands of other children born blind or with some other comparable "handicap."

It may even be that as a result of the determination and imagination these children must use to overcome their handicaps that they will be above the average in their accomplishments.

When you "talked" to Helen Keller you had her undivided attention. You could feel that she was attempting fully to understand what it was you wanted to know and that she was then doing her utmost to describe in words what it was that she felt and believed.

If it makes Miss Keller sound like a business type, it shouldn't. It wasn't that she brushed idle chatter aside. It was rather that being with her you didn't feel like idle chatter. One doesn't answer the happy searching of a three-year-old child with chit-chat. No more does one deal this way with a mature woman who shows the remarkable interest in you and your thoughts that Helen Keller showed.

Helen Keller's teacher, Anne Sullivan Macy, did more than teach her pupil to "hear, speak, read and write." In a very real way, she taught Miss Keller to so live that her blindness and deafness became incidental. She gave her a reason for being.

All this sounds very analytical. But when you met Helen Keller you didn't analyze, or this reporter didn't anyway. He just enjoyed being with this woman who was neither blind nor deaf.

Ten and Twenty Years Ago

June 8, 1948 — Local paid firemen circulated a pay-raise petition.

Peter P. Zeck, 92, soda water manufacturer, and the city's oldest volunteer fireman, died June 7 at his West Union Street home.

June 8, 1958 — The Ulster County Republican convention, meeting at the municipal auditorium, nominated Kenneth L. Wilson to succeed himself as assemblyman; J. Ernest Wharton to again be the candidate for Congress; former City Judge Raymond J. Mino for district attorney; incumbent Albert Cook for county treasurer; Arthur C. Chipp for coroner, a post he formerly held, and State Senator E. Ogden Bush for reelection to the post. Attending the convention was the State Senate Majority Leader Walter J. Mahoney.

Hanoi's Suicidal Attacks

In an effort to achieve victories to support its negotiators in Paris, North Vietnam has lost more than 100,000 killed in action so far this year in suicidal attacks, Gen. William C. Westmoreland reported.

American deaths in the two months since President Johnson set the stage for the Paris talks with his March 31 cutback of bombing the North, have also increased, reaching a total of 3,330.

North Vietnam's objective is to destroy the Government of South Vietnam and develop an image of strength to persuade the United States of the futility of its efforts, Westmoreland said. The enemy is paying a fearful price for these aims—and we are also losing men at an increased pace during this "talk and fight" phase.

Comparison of the fighting during the two years of negotiations in Korea may help one to understand the present situation. Then, the Chinese and North Koreans took a loss of more than 100,000 in the spring of 1951 in less than one month, in an effort to soften the United States and its allies. The same disregard of life is being shown by North Vietnam now.

To Americans, such losses are senseless. To Orientals, they are the price of the face with which to establish their negotiating positions.

Student Rebellions

President Johnson was speaking of student rebellions. He referred to the problems several modern Presidents have had with rebellious youth in recent weeks—in France, Germany, Poland, Czechoslovakia and the United States.

"Those who glorify violence are really the best friends the status quo ever had," Johnson argued. "They provoke a powerful conservative reaction among millions of people. They inspire, among many people, a blind allegiance to things as they are—even when these things should be changed. But though they are great in volume, these young totalitarians of opinion are few in number among America's graduating classes this spring."

The President was making the commencement address at Texas Christian University at Fort Worth. He hoped America's youth would address itself to the all-important question of how—how education can be improved, how medical care costs can be reduced, how the nation can take advantage of the technological gap, how to overcome poverty and the threat of nuclear war.

Such problem-tackling is surely more worthy of modern youth than the aims of those extremists who seek to rule or wreck our great universities. The President rightly called students to use their great moral energy to build the universities, not wreck them.

Kennedy, Man of Controversy; Warm, Tough, Loved and Feared

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
NEA Washington Correspondent

Robert F. Kennedy, the fourth of his family to be struck by tragedy, has moved across the American political scene for a decade in the very eye of a storm of controversy.

Some elements that make him a storm center can be fathomed and some cannot. He is loved and admired, hated and feared more passionately perhaps than has been true of any man in this country's public life in modern times—even Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Professional poll-takers who sketch out candidate profiles long ago learned that this charming, driving man of 42, with his craggy face and unruly shock of hair is seen by Americans as a puzzling mosaic of contrasting impressions.

The catalogue of negatives is astonishing—"ruthless, too ambitious, erratic, unreliable, too emotional, trading on his late brother's name, using his family's wealth to win high office, questing after public adulation."

Yet countless Americans see him as warm, friendly, aggressive in pursuit of useful political and national goals, a fitting successor to his martyred brother, John Kennedy.

Robert Kennedy himself unquestionably has been stunned this spring at the depth and breadth of the animosity he seems to stir in so many quarters. On a campaign airplane he said to me as he has to others:

"I'm the only candidate who has ever managed to unite business, labor, the organization Democrats and the intellectuals. They're all against me."

A few days later, a key figure in the California political world offered this in partial explanation of the sturdy opposition to Kennedy within the leading elements of his own party:

"Politicians do not like men who are tougher than they are, and Bob Kennedy is tougher than they."

Ruthlessness Charged
When he campaigned for the U. S. Senate in New York four years ago, I asked him how he reacted to the then-already-familiar charge of ruthlessness. He thought for a long while before answering:

"I think that is what happens to you when you try to do things."

That comment may be close to the core of it. Reporters traveling with him on the 1968 primary trail have been struck by the fact that the fear of him persists among many Americans even as he talks more conservatively than his rival, Sen. Eugene McCarthy, but yet talks of doing things to alter the nation's course in war and in its troubled cities.

One perceptive observer feels that this image of the driving activist is enough alone to alarm many Americans who may see the need for some change but do not want too much of it. Says this man:

"Looking at the other candidates, in both parties, these people do not think their election as president would affect the course of events too drastically. But they are pretty sure that if Bob Kennedy were in the White House their world would be different—in ways they can hardly guess."

An old friend and former close associate of Kennedy's recently told me flatly that he believes the label of "ruthless" was indeed applicable to some of the senator's behavior. Yet he feels that in some ways this charge, made too sweepingly and repeated too often by people who have had no experience with such behavior from him, works in his favor as he campaigns the nation.

"When they see him in person," says this friend, "many people decide that he isn't all that ruthless."

A good many reporters evidently have been thus affected. Some who have joined his traveling troupe with a certain built-in hostility toward Kennedy have been transformed into stout admirers after a week or two of close contact.

At intimate range, many find him very warm, considerate of their needs, witty, tough but often quite generous in his judgments of others in public life, genuinely fond of people.

In California not long ago, he quietly told some reporters he would be happy to have them bring their wives along on the press plane to ease the hardship of long separation. Several times, he confided to newsmen that he is deeply fond of the young idealists who have flocked to McCarthy's banner and hopes to win some of them to his side if his own candidacy flourishes.

Observers Amazed
Observers who have never watched him campaign in person are always amazed by the easy, quick rapport he develops with a crowd. His bantering exchanges are so continuous that sometimes his appearances have the air of an audience participation show on television.

To a huge, noisy, racially mixed throng in an auditorium at Camden, N.J., he shouted:

"How many of you ever heard of Charles Croft? (long pause) None of you, none of you! Well, he was the Earl of Camden for whom this city was named."

Usually the lighthearted chatter evokes laughter and warm response. It even works on frosty audiences like the City Club in Portland, Ore., where business and professional leaders found themselves laughing in spite of themselves. They broke up when he said:

"Somebody just took a poll of 500 businessmen and I got one vote. I understand they're looking for him."

Though Kennedy can be sharp and short-tempered, he often deals with hecklers and hostile signs in crowds with great tolerance and wit.

In Omaha a bull-headed man shouting at him finally forced the senator to halt his speech. He turned to look at his wife, Ethel, and said with a smile:

"Ethel, I'm very sorry to have to tell you this, but I'm afraid the vote in Omaha is not going to be unanimous."

All this good-spirited campaigning makes its inevitably strong impression upon thousands and thousands of Americans who feel the touch of his charismatic presence. Those who pore over election statistics find a definite link between his personal travel routes and healthy votes for him in primary states.

Nevertheless, it does not wipe out the negative impressions which cling tenaciously to him. With some people, including some prominent figures in his chosen party, the distaste for Kennedy seems so great that he cannot win no matter what he does.

A few years ago he met privately in New York with some strong-minded Negro leaders, including Prof. Kenneth Clark and author James Baldwin. Reports later filtered out that he had shown an appalling ignorance of the Negro's plight and seemed unable to communicate effectively.

Today, his string of primary victories in such states as California, Nebraska, Indiana and the District of Columbia has demonstrated he has an 80 to 90 per cent hold on the nation's troubled Negro citizenry.

The earlier criticism has died, only to be replaced with new charges that he is "too close" to the Negroes in the turbulent racial struggle. Even McCarthy has made special note of Kennedy's identification with "bloc votes," a clear reference to his immense Negro support.

Similarly, Kennedy was often chided in earlier years for playing hero to young Americans. When McCarthy entered the presidential race, some of these young people flocked to him and launched what came to be known admiringly as the "children's crusade." Almost lost from sight was the fact, too, that when primary votes were counted, Kennedy actually was winning the support of people under 30 by margins up to 2 to 1 over McCarthy.

Twists of this sort suggested that, whatever his political future, he was never likely to escape being the storm center he has been for so long. It is the country's tragedy as well as his that he became a would-be assassin's target as he continued to move in the hurricane's eye of controversy.

Timely Quotes

Today, we are much more a warfare than a welfare state. —Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, noting that 74.7 per cent of the $157-billion U. S. budget in 1967 went for war or war-related items.

Our manipulation of our environment is like a game of Russian roulette. We keep on pulling the trigger, even though we are ignorant of the contents of each individual chamber. But let me assure you the chambers are loaded. —Raul R. Ehrlich, Stanford University population biologist, on the threat of pesticides.

Drew Pearson Says TV-Radio Networks Reap Big Profits From Public Airways

WASHINGTON—Most people have forgotten it, but former Sen. Clarence Dill of Washington is the chief author of the 1934 Communications Act regulating the thousands of TV and radio programs which the American public hears and sees daily.

"When we wrote the act," said Sen. Dill, "Senator White of Maine and I considered whether we should put a ceiling on profits. After all, the act provided for the use of air channels belonging to the public and the public had a right to be paid for them out of profits."

"However, we decided there wouldn't be any profits. That's why there is no requirement in the law for any rental of benefit to the public."

"If we had to do over again, the law would have been different," said former Sen. Dill, now retired and living in Spokane.

His words are significant in view of the stinging report issued by two members of the Federal Communications Commission, Kenneth Cox and Nicholas Johnson, pointing to the profits of the TV-radio industry.

Their survey, which was confined to Oklahoma, showed both tremendous profits and scanty public service. "The television industry averages about 100 per cent return on depreciated tangible investment and about 40 per cent on gross revenues," the two commissioners reported.

Who Will LBJ Appoint?

They found that only one of ten stations with around $18,000 gross devotes as much as two hours a week to local public affairs programs.

"There is not in the entire state a single regularly scheduled prime time program devoted to the presentation, analysis, or discussion of controversial issues of public importance in the state or in the community," reported Commissioners Cox and Johnson.

Yet the FCC renewed their licenses almost automatically. Cox and Johnson could have gone further if they had scrutinized the national TV-radio scene. If so, they would have discovered that network profits were among the highest in the nation. For the first half of 1967 the three networks racked up a total profit of $718,700,000 with CBS increasing its take by $55,436,800.

CBS has made so much money in recent years that it has difficulty investing its profits and has branched out into baseball, theatrics, educational book publishing and even guitar manufacturing. Among other things, it owns the New York Yankees and "My Fair Lady."

All this presents a problem for President Johnson. He has an FCC commissioner to appoint this month. The FCC has been criticized in the past for enhancing Ladybird's stations in Texas. So the country will be watching to see whether LBJ appoints a forthright commissioner who watches the public interest or another patsy who promotes private profits.

Institute of Criminal Justice

Now that the Senate has hung so many Christmas tree amendments on the anti-crime bill, there's only one real section of the bill worth saving. That is the section providing for an "institute of criminal justice," pioneered by young Rep. James Scheuer of the Bronx.

Despite the original opposition of J. Edgar Hoover and Rep. John Rooney of Brooklyn, Scheuer finally sold some of his Republican colleagues on the bill and got it inserted in the crime bill. Even Ramsey Clark, the Attorney General, shied away from the institute of crime justice in deference to J. Edgar Hoover.

Essentially the institute would apply modern science to crime detection and crime prevention.

Most people don't realize it, but police departments and the FBI do not use such modern techniques as voice prints and dry blood prints. Nor have most of them perfected hair prints, though the FBI used this technique in identifying James Earl Ray, the assassin of Martin Luther King.

But by using such modern techniques, police departments could get away from their present reliance on pre-trial confessions. This is what the Supreme Court has restricted as an invasion of constitutional rights.

Crime Prevention

Rep. Scheuer also proposes that the institute of criminal justice study the problems of crime prevention and apprehension.

Only 24 per cent of those who commit serious crimes are apprehended," says Scheuer. "The problem is not so much conviction but first prevention, second apprehension."

"One very easy means of preventing crime is locking automobiles. Today there are 600,000 auto thefts a year, and one-half of the cars are stolen because keys were left in the lock. There are other means of preventing car thefts, such as locking the gear shift, locking the wheels. If these were employed, car thefts could be cut from 600,000 to 100,000."

Rep. Scheuer has also proposed such modern techniques as a computer assignment of police cars.

"We spend millions every year in researching causes of muscular dystrophy, epilepsy and heart disease," says Scheuer. "Why not spend a few millions in researching the causes of the disease of crime? So far we have spent almost nothing on this disease, its prevention, its cure or its means of apprehension."

Scheuer has written a book, "To Walk the Streets Safely," to be published by Doubleday shortly.

Russia Becomes Exclusive Provider of Arms for India

By MARK GAYN
Chicago Daily News Service

NEW DELHI — The Soviet Union has become an all but exclusive provider of arms for India's growing military establishment.

Western informants here say the supplies have been especially massive in heavy artillery, fighter planes and air transport, but India has also acquired some naval equipment.

Soviet specialists are also supervising the building of three aircraft plants, including a very large one at Nasik, not far from Bombay. These plants are to turn out MIG-19s and the advanced MIG-21s.

The Indians do not allow visits to their military installations, and discourage inquiries, so it is not known how many Soviet military experts and advisers there may be in the country.

But the consensus is that the training of Indians who handle the new armaments is being done in the Soviet Union rather than here.

The armaments already acquired include some 100 MIG-21s. It is not known if India has yet received the three submarines signed for nearly two years ago.

The only real break in the Soviet monopoly on arms is being offered by the British built plant manufacturing the small and highly maneuverable Gnat jet fighter-interceptor, in great favor with the Indian Air Force. The last known production figure for the plant was put at six planes a month.

The Russians arrived at their privileged position as the main arms merchants here almost by error. They began to supply weapons in 1964, in the belief they would be competing with the United States—a challenge they seemingly could not resist. But then it was discovered it was all a mistake. While the United States was willing to provide transport equipment and such, it would give India neither naval equipment for high performance planes.

Convinced at last it was not competing with the United States, Moscow still continued to provide arms—now as part of its policy to buttress India against China.

India has been in the market for arms ever since her disastrous war with China in the fall of 1962. The ease with which the Chinese penetrated the Indian defense, and their almost contemptuous withdrawal after they tasted victory, produced a traumatic effect here.

Indian officials say this debacle will never be repeated, for the entire military establishment has been expanded and vastly improved. With an estimated 1,000,000 men under arms, India is now believed to have the fourth largest military establishment in the world.

In the Indian mind, however, the Chinese threat is inseparable from the threat from Pakistan. India is pleased with the performance of her armed forces in the last "pocket war" with her Moslem neighbor, but she is convinced that there will be renewed clashes.

Moscow is believed to have India's pledge not to use her growing stock of modern Soviet arms against Pakistan.

The Soviet armament sales have been one by-product of the new closeness between Moscow and Delhi. Delhi has not been flaunting this new friendship with the Soviets in American faces. Indeed, there is a warm feeling for the United States, both in official and private circles, partly because it has been American grain (and some Canadian) that averted a famine here in 1966-67.

At the same time, it is widely felt that Delhi is increasingly leaning in Moscow's direction.

Star of Hope for Handicapped

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Three decades ago in Tokyo's Imperial Hotel, this reporter had the good fortune to meet and interview Helen Keller, who has just died at the age of 87.

This was an experience a man does not easily forget. It was not because of what this wonderful woman said. It was rather the look on her face, her reactions, her movements, her enthusiasm.

She was—then in her late 50s—as full of questioning curiosity as a three-year-old boy who is always tumbling over himself because of his eagerness to discover new things and to take them apart and understand them.

The things she did with her life, the happiness she lived and gave to others, the contributions she made, make it clear that those thousands of children born deaf as a result of the major German measles epidemic of several years back can, with sufficient love and training, become highly useful citizens.

The same can be said for those thousands of other children born blind or with some other comparable "handicap."

It may even be, that as a result of the determination and imagination these children must use to overcome their handicaps that they will be above the average in their accomplishments.

When you "talked" to Helen Keller you had her undivided attention. You could feel that she was attempting fully to understand what it was you wanted to know and that she was then doing her utmost to describe in words what it was that she felt and believed.

Ten and Twenty Years Ago

June 8, 1948 — Local paid firemen circulated a pay-raise petition.

Peter P. Zeeh, 92, soda water manufacturer, and the city's oldest volunteer fireman, died June 7 at his West Union Street home.

June 8, 1958 — The Ulster County Republican convention, meeting at the municipal auditorium, nominated Kenneth L. Wilson to succeed himself as assemblyman; J. Ernest Wharton to again be the candidate for Congress; former City Judge Raymond J. Mino for district attorney; incumbent Albert Cook for county treasurer; Arthur C. Chipp for coroner, a post he formerly held, and State Senator E. Ogden Bush for reelection to the post. Attending the convention was the State Senate Majority Leader Walter J. Mahoney.

There was no halfway business, no coyness, no attempt to bolster her importance or to show off what she knew. She was what she was. But in this she was attempting to learn what you were and to learn whatever it was that you could teach her, even if you were merely interviewing. Nothing was idle chatter or routine.

If this makes Miss Keller sound like a business type, it shouldn't. It wasn't that she brushed idle chatter aside. It was rather that being with her you didn't feel like idle chatter. One doesn't answer the happy searching of a three-year-old child with chit-chat. No more does one deal this way with a mature woman who shows the remarkable interest in you and your thoughts that Helen Keller showed.

Helen Keller's teacher, Anne Sullivan Macy, did more than teach her pupil to "hear, speak, read and write." In a very real way, she taught Miss Keller to so live that her blindness and deafness became incidental. She gave her a reason for being.

All this sounds very analytical. But when you met Helen Keller you didn't analyze, or this reporter didn't anyway. He just enjoyed being with this woman who was neither blind nor deaf.

The Teen Scene

by
LEI

Little kids are often told that the "cop on the beat" is their friend, but they seem to regard this information with distrust after hearing Daddy the first time he gets a speeding ticket. By the time these kids reach their teens, they usually are not only certain that "the fuzz" is not their friend, but often, that he is their enemy. Many think that the feeling is mutual. If anything irritates the teen more than being questioned when he is up to something, it's being questioned when he's playing it straight. In either case, the common question is heard, "Why does the fuzz always pick on us kids?"

Part of the answer to that lies in the conditioning a trained policeman receives. A police officer's mind does not work like yours does, or even like that of your parents, teachers, and other adults.

Do you have unmatched hubcaps on your car? Are you a girl alone in a cafe? Are you hitchhiking, or wearing a coat on a warm day? Well, you are the type of person a policeman is conditioned to "bug." And that's from the horse's mouth.

Several years ago a police trade journal issued a checklist on "field interrogation." The first item advised the officers to be suspicious, and added that they shouldn't be too obvious about it. The next item suggested that they look for the unusual—including any car, person, or business that didn't "look right" or belong in its surroundings.

The third item in the list identified 20 types of people which should (not might—Should) be subject to field interrogation. In addition to those mentioned above, this list includes those who try to evade the office, those who show exaggerated lack of concern over meeting an officer, and those who appear rattled over meeting him.

All of us can add others—"hippies," friends of people who have been busted, and of course, anybody who's ever been in actual trouble.

Most cops aren't kid-haters. Many of them have teenagers of their own; some are hardly voting age, themselves. But they have a job to do, and they have been trained in a certain way to do this job. (Of course, there sometimes is the officer who has a grudge, but if his superiors find out about it, he will learn there is no place for him on the force.)

Nobody likes being given a bum scene by the fuzz. But you help nothing by taking it out on the officers. Remember how you feel now, when you're old enough to go into that voting booth and make some changes in a system that could produce such a list of "suspicious persons" to trouble both the officers and the "suspicious persons."

Until then, remember that if it were your rod that hubcaps had been lifted off, you'd be pretty happy if a cop-on-the-beat caught the cat that took them. Otherwise—well, good luck. And the next time you pass a patrolman, say "hi." With luck, that won't strike him as suspicious . . .

'Foreign Exchange'

By KATHLEEN NEUMEYER

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Fifteen Negro teen-agers from Los Angeles ghetto areas were "foreign exchange" students this year at a school less than 50 miles from home. For one week they lived in white homes and went to classes at suburban Chatsworth high school.

The Negro boys and girls were participants in an experiment called "operation live-in" which came into being early this year when administrators of two predominantly Negro Los Angeles high schools decided that with race relations the nation's most pressing domestic problem, their students might profit from exposure to an all-white community.

"We just wanted to get some people together to find out about each other," explained Robert Malcolm, principal of Fremont high school. He and

James Taylor, principal of Locke high school, approached Dr. Gertrude H. Smith of Chatsworth, a Santa Susana mountains community in the northwestern corner of Los Angeles county.

"It was Mr. Malcolm's idea that some youngsters who have lived all their lives in the ghetto area come here, like foreign exchange students, to attend our school and live in homes in our community," Dr. Smith said. "I talked it over with our students, and they were most enthusiastic."

"We weren't trying to solve any great sociological problems. We were just trying to give some students a valuable experience in learning about people from different backgrounds. I think it was a good thing to do."

Prom Trotters, Queen's Crowns June Highlight

It's prom trotting time around the county

Last night the annual graduation dinner dance for the class of '68 from Dutchess Community College and their guests was held at the Oddo House in Clintondale.

Serving on the dance committee was Fred Pizzuto of Highland. Poughkeepsie students Eric Goodwin and Thomas Starzyk, also served on the committee.

The Ambassadors, an instrumental group from New York City provided music for dancing.

Junior prom festivities at New Paltz High School recently had the theme, Holiday in Rome. Approximately 50 couples attended and danced to the music of The Colorful, a Marist College band.

Highlight of the event, reportedly the most successful ever, was the crowning of George Roberts as king and Bonnie Hill as queen. Attendants were Pat Pesavento, Kathleen Kenyon, Marion Ann McLeod, Colleen Kenyon, Julia Moerbeek, Donna Tantillo, Florence Babb and Debbie Cranle.

Another coronation of note was the recent one held during Moving Day at Rondout Valley Central School. Bernice Barr received the coveted May Queen crown. Maid of honor was Sandi Van Kleck with Fran Black, Fran Overton, Kathleen Connell and Cathy Mills as attendants.

MAROONS FOR VIETNAM—It is packing day at Kingston High School as students prepare Maroon yearbooks for mailing to former KHSers in Vietnam. Helping with the packaging are (l-r) Jean De Angelis, Lonnie Goble, Karen Cherny and Diane Pritchard. More than 50 yearbooks were mailed to local servicemen in an effort to bring a little of the old hometown to the battlefield and additional editions are still available for GIs overseas. Gene Loughlin, faculty advisor for the project may be contacted at KHS with any names and addresses omitted in the first mailing. Students have conducted fund drives to finance the purchase of yearbooks and Ulster Kiwanis footed the bill for packaging and mailing. (Freeman photo by Haines)

CYO TEEN DAY—To a blend of religion and social activities more than 100 area teenagers participated in Teen Insight Day at St. Peter's Church on a recent Sunday. Activities included folk Mass, dance, movies, talks and discussion groups. The Rev. Terrence Pierson said the Mass and delivered the main talk on Communications in the Church, School and Home. Seminarians from Mt. St. Alphonsus assisted with the festivities and the Shadows of Reality played for the dance in the evening. The response was so overwhelming that plans are underway for more teen days in the future.

'Foreign Exchange'

By KATHLEEN NEUMEYER, LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Fifteen Negro teen-agers from Los Angeles ghetto areas were "foreign exchange" students this year at a school less than 50 miles from home. For one week they lived in white homes and went to classes at suburban Chatsworth high school.

The Negro boys and girls were participants in an experiment called "operation live-in" which came into being early this year when administrators of two predominantly Negro Los Angeles high schools decided that with race relations the nation's most pressing domestic problem, their students might profit from exposure to an all-white community.

"We just wanted to get some people together to find out about each other," explained Robert Malcolm, principal of Fremont high school. He and

James Taylor, principal of Locke high school, approached Dr. Gertrude H. Smith of Chatsworth, a Santa Susana mountains community in the northwestern corner of Los Angeles county.

"It was Mr. Malcolm's idea that some youngsters who have lived all their lives in the ghetto area come here, like foreign exchange students, to attend our school and live in homes in our community," Dr. Smith said. "I talked it over with our students, and they were most enthusiastic."

"We weren't trying to solve any great sociological problems. We were just trying to give some students a valuable experience in learning about people from different backgrounds."

"I think it was a good thing to do." With permission from city school officials, the administrators talked up the program in their schools. Interested students filled out applications, and teachers and administrators at Locke and Fremont chose 15 students to take part.

Those selected were paired with Chatsworth families according to sex, age and interests of the youngsters, as well as similarity of class scheduled.

Carrying suitcases and $10 spending money apiece, the students were taken to Chatsworth on a Sunday afternoon and turned over to their host families in the school parking lot.

The youngsters agreed family relationships in Chatsworth weren't much different from those at home, except "their mothers don't work. They spend more time with their children, and read to them."

Prom Trotters, Queen's Crowns June Highlight

It's prom trotting time around the county

Last night the annual graduation dinner dance for the class of '68 from Dutchess Community College and their guests was held at the Oddo House in Clintondale.

Serving on the dance committee was Fred Pizzuto of Highland, Poughkeepsie students Eric Goodwin and Thomas Starzyk, also served on the committee.

The Ambassadors, an instrumental group from New York City provided music for dancing.

Junior prom festivities at New Paltz High School recently had the theme, Holiday in Rome. Approximately 50 couples attended and danced to the music of The Colony, a Marist College band.

Highlight of the event, reported the most successful ever, was the crowning of George Roberts as king and Bonnie Hill as queen. Attendants were Pat Pesavento, Kathleen Kenyon, Marion Ann McLeod, Colleen Kenyon, Julia Moerbeek, Donna Tantillo, Florence Babb and Debbie Crante.

Another coronation of note was the recent one held during Moving Up Day at Rondout Valley Central School. Bernice Barr received the coveted May Queen crown. Maid of honor was Sand Van Kleeck with Fran Black, Fran Overton, Kathleen Connell and Cathy Mills as attendants.

MAROONS FOR VIETNAM—It is packing day at Kingston High School as students prepare Maroon yearbooks for mailing to former KHSers in Vietnam. Helping with the packaging are (l-r) Jean De Angelis, Lonnie Goble, Karen Cherny and Diane Pritchard. More than 50 yearbooks were mailed to local servicemen in an effort to bring a little of the old hometown to the battlefield and additional editions are still available for GIs overseas. Gene Loughlin, faculty advisor for the project may be contacted at KHS with any names and addresses omitted in the first mailing. Students have conducted fund drives to finance the purchase of yearbooks and Ulster Kiwanis footed the bill for packaging and mailing. (Freeman photo by Haines)

CYO TEEN DAY—To a blend of religion and social activities more than 100 area teenagers participated in Teen Insight Day at St. Peter's Church on a recent Sunday. Activities included folk Mass, dance, movies, talks and discussion groups. The Rev. Terrence Pierson said the Mass and delivered the main talk on Communications in the Church, School and Home. Seminarians from Mt. St. Alphonsus assisted with the festivities and the Shadows of Reality played for the dance in the evening. The response was so overwhelming that plans are underway for more teen days in the future.

The Teen Scene

LEI

Little kids are often told that the "cop on the beat" is their friend, but they seem to regard this information with distrust after hearing Daddy the first time he gets a speeding ticket. By the time these kids reach their teens, they usually are not only certain that "the fuzz" is not their friend, but often, that he is their enemy. Many think that the feeling is mutual. If anything irritates the teen more than being questioned when he is up to something, it's being questioned when he's playing it straight. In either case, the common question is heard, "Why does the fuzz always pick on us kids?"

Part of the answer to that lies in the conditioning a trained policeman receives. A police officer's mind does not work like yours does, or even like that of your parents, teachers, and other adults.

Do you have unmatched hubcaps on your car? Are you a girl alone in a cafe? Are you hitchhiking, or wearing a coat on a warm day? Well, you are the type of person a policeman is conditioned to "bug." And that's from the horse's mouth.

Several years ago a police trade journal issued a checklist on "field interrogation." The first item advised the officers to be suspicious, and added that they shouldn't be too obvious about it. The next item suggested that they look for the unusual—including any car, person, or business that didn't "look right" or belong in its surroundings.

The third item in the list identified 20 types of people which should (not might—Should) be subject to field interrogation. In addition to those mentioned above, this list includes those who try to evade the office, those who show exaggerated lack of concern over meeting an officer, and those who appear rattled over meeting him.

All of us can add others—"hippies," friends of people who have been busted, and of course, anybody who's ever been in actual trouble.

Most cops aren't kid-haters. Many of them have teenagers of their own; some are hardly voting age, themselves. But they have a job to do, and they have been trained in a certain way to do this job. (Of course, there sometimes is the officer who has a grudge, but if his superiors find out about it, he will learn there is no place for him on the force.)

Nobody likes being given a bumner scene by the fuzz. But you help nothing by taking it out on the officers. Remember how you feel now, when you're old enough to go into that voting booth and make some changes in a system that could produce such a list of "suspicious persons" to trouble both the officers and the "suspicious persons."

Until then, remember that if it were your rod that hubcaps had been lifted off, you'd be pretty happy if a cop-on-the-beat caught the cat that took them. Otherwise—well, good luck. And the next time you pass a patrolman, say "hi." With luck, that won't strike him as suspicious . . .

Health for All

Fortune is supposed to lie at the foot of the rainbow—but for dieters, intent on shearing off the pounds, ill fortune in the form of ill health can result from the rainbow pills sometimes prescribed for the purpose of losing weight.

The multi-colored pills include barbiturates, diuretics, digitalis, amphetamines, laxatives, and thyroid drugs. Such drugs are potent; and their effects, according to some medical experts, can seriously damage or, in some cases, even cause death.

A recent Washington inquiry drew attention to certain types of drug houses that push the rainbow pills, and to some "diet doctors" who prescribe them more or less indiscriminately. Some of their practices, it was brought out, are mere assembly line operations with inadequate emphasis on medical examination and excessive reliance on the pills.

At a recent conference of diet

American Medical Association experts, according to Medical World News, some participants thought that "the pendulum has swung back to the 1920's, to a stress on the need for regular exercise and physical activity to counteract our excessive eating habits and sedentary ways." Others maintained that a warm, friendly social environment encouraged eating in the obese individual more than it did in persons of normal weight. There is also growing support for the theory that purely physiologic differences exist between those inclined to be obese and the naturally slim.

Despite all fads and "crash programs," the first step to safe and effective dieting is a consultation with your family physician. Your Christmas Seal association, concerned with general health as well as with the fight against tuberculosis, emphysema and air pollution suggests that the key to proper dieting remains what it has been: less food with a balanced

The Men from Merrill Lynch are holding a free investment lecture course

If you're a new investor, or if you're thinking about investing, you owe it to yourself to take Merrill Lynch's free investment course.

In simple, easy-to-understand language, you'll learn what stocks and bonds are, why people buy them, how big dividends are, how much stocks are worth, why they change in price, and other basic information essential to the investor.

In addition, you'll find out how the New York Stock Exchange operates, what brokers do for their customers, and how to buy and sell securities. A review of the stock market today, where it stands, and where it might be heading will be included.

You'll also hear a discussion of specific stocks which our Research Department views as attractive. And you'll learn how to plan an investment strategy based on your specific needs and objectives. Naturally, there will be plenty of time for questions about the market in general or about specific securities.

Yanks Win 4-1, Lose 8-4

NEW YORK (UPI) — Don Mincher's three-run homer in the first inning led the California Angels to an 8-4 victory over New York Friday night and a doubleheader split after Firtz Peterson scattered eight hits in his first complete game victory this season to give the Yanks a 4-1 triumph in the opener.

Mincher's homer, his fourth of the season, came off starter and loser Bill Monbouquette after Paul Schaal and Jim Fregosi singled. The Angels added two more off Monbouquette in the second inning on Schall's walk, Fregosi's triple and Roger Repoz's single.

The Angels got two more off Jim Bouton in the third. After Rick Reichardt and Jimmie Hall singled, Reichardt scored on Jake Gibbs' passed ball and Tom Satriano singled home Hall. Satriano homered in the fifth for the final Angel run.

Mickey Mantle hit a two-run homer in the first inning for the Yanks. It was the 525th of his career. But Jim McGlothlin, boosting his record to 5-4, coasted the rest of the way while allowing two runs on Charley Smith's pinch triple in the second and Bobby Cox's sacrifice fly in the seventh.

McGlothlin gave up six hits. In the first game, Peterson picked up his first complete game victory of the year by scattering eight hits. His record is now 3-2. George Brunet, who gave up four hits and three runs in five innings, took the loss although he was the victim of two unearned runs. Brunet is 5-6.

Bill Robinson hit his first homer in the third and the Yanks got their first unearned run in the fourth when Bobby Cox's homer scored Tom Tresh, who reached base on Jim Fregosi's throwing error. Bob Rodriguez wild throw to third, attempting to catch Ellie Rodriguez who was advancing from second on Brunet's wild pitch, enabled the other unearned run to score in the fifth.

Broken Bat Single Cost Odom No-Hitter

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer
The Moon shone brightly except for brief eclipses in the first and ninth innings. John "Blue Moon" Odom of the Oakland Athletics gave up a first-inning run on three walks and a sacrifice fly and then yielded a broken-bat single with two out in the ninth.

But the 23-year-old right-hander finished with a one-hitter and a 6-1 victory over the Baltimore Orioles Friday night. Oakland also won the second game of the two-night doubleheader 6-0 behind the four-hit pitching of Jim Nash.

In other American League action, Minnesota split with Washington, winning 5-3 and losing 3-2 in 10 innings; Boston edged the Chicago White Sox 3-2 and Detroit nipped Cleveland 5-4.

"If he hadn't broken the bat, maybe the ball would have carried a little further and would have been caught," Odom said of Dave Johnson's ninth-inning single.

However, the ball dropped into right field and kept Odom from becoming the second Oakland pitcher to hurl a no-hitter this year. Jim "Catfish" Hunter pitched a perfect game May 8. The sacrifice fly by Brooks Robinson in the first inning came close to being much more than that. Rick Monday raced to the fence in left center to haul in the drive. He scored Paul Blair who had walked and advanced to third on a pair of one-out passes.

Odom walked a total of eight in boosting his record to 5-4. He struck out four. Oakland gave Odom all the help he needed by scoring four runs in the second inning on Ramon Webster's double, three

All-Time Kingston High All-Events

Was Herb Petersen's 2132 Good Enough for Jackpot?

By CHARLES J. TIANO
(Sports Editor)

Competing in a bowling tournament at Great Barrington, Mass., several weeks ago, Herb Petersen rolled the highest all-events series ever by a Kingston bowler—a phenomenal 2132 over the nine-game route. This averages off to a sizzling 237 score per game.

Petersen compiled the record-breaking set with a 699 in the team event, 754 in doubles and 697 singles. No Kingston bowler has ever come even close to those staggering figures.

When Petersen and his teammates—the WGB Oil Clarifiers—left Cove Lanes at Great Barrington several weeks ago, they led in three divisions:

- 1) Team scratch event with 3075.
- 2) Petersen and Jim Amendola had 1271 scratch doubles.
- 3) Petersen's 2132 all-events.

Over Two Weeks Ago
Although the tournament will have been concluded two weeks tomorrow night, efforts by The Freeman sports department to confirm these totals as winners have proved fruitless. Either the lanes telephone isn't answered or no "definite information yet" is the password when a voice does reply.

This absurd situation again reveals the sloppy manner in which some post-season sweepstakes and tournaments are still operated these days, despite efforts of the American Bowling Congress to regulate them.

There is little doubt that Petersen's 2132 is a record.

A three-run eruption in the sixth inning gave Glasco AC a come-from-behind 4-2 victory and snapped a 12-game winning streak by Michael's Barber Shop pitcher. Morse Wolven, Friday in the Saunder's Softball League's Yankee Division.

The win gave the Glasco team a 4-1 record, just a half-game off the 4-0 pace set by South Side Men's Club. Michael's, pre-season choice, is third at 1-1.

Glasco's winning rally was started by Ray Lasher, who singled and went to third on a pair of infield outs. Vince Ferraro was clipped by a Wolven serve, and the two base runners staged a double steal.

Harvey knotting the score at 2-1 by absconding with home. Ed Rizzo's single scored Ferraro to go ahead, and Joe Robert's bloop that fell in, scored Rizzo with the insurance tally.

Glasco took a 1-0 lead after the first on a pair of wild throws coupled with singles by Ray and Roy Lasher.

A run in the second and another in the fourth, three doubles and a single providing the hitting, put Michael's on top.

In the Met Division, a double header Thursday found Ted's Esso up its league lead to a full game with a 4-2 victory over Helmsmoortel Insurance and King's Diner sent A. J. Scarselli's further into the cellar with a solid 6-4 defeat.

Helmsmoortel had a chance to win it, scoring two in the sixth to bring the score close and had bases loaded with two out, but couldn't get the needed run off Ted's hurler, Maurice Hinchey.

King's moved into a tie for second place with Bo's Tavern by taking the win. King's, however, had a scare thrown into it by Scarselli's, who added a trio of runs in the bottom of the sixth.

Best information is that the WGB's 3075 is guaranteed $250, if it held up. But no word on the doubles, singles or all-events.

Petersen's 679 may have been erased off the scoreboard, but when will we know? The Clarifiers built up their 3075 smash on games of 1032, 1059 and 978. In addition to Petersen's 699, Cary Barnes fired 575, Bob (Tall) Smith 537, Amendola 651, and Donato 613.

A slightly chastened Amendola added a modest 517 to Petersen's 754 doubles total. In the singles, Herb knocked off solos of 238, 206 and 235. Amendola has indicated that he might donate his share of the doubles money to his favorite charity.

Meanwhile, communications between Kingston and Great Barrington, Mass., still seem to be bogged down.

Maloney - Rose Duo Gives Cincy 4-2 Win

By Vito Stellino
UPI Sports Writer
Jim Maloney did the unexpected and Pete Rose did the expected.

It added up to a 4-2 victory for the Cincinnati Reds Friday night that snapped the St. Louis Cardinals' winning streak at nine games.

Maloney, attempting to lay down a surprise sacrifice bunt with two strikes on him, wound up with a bunt single in the fourth inning that loaded the bases for Rose.

Rose, the National League's leading hitter, slapped a two-run single that snapped a 2-2 tie and gave the Reds their winning margin.

Maloney, allowing only six hits, blanked the Cards the rest of the way to gain his sixth victory against three losses.

"Maloney's bunt was perfect, he really surprised me by bunting with two strikes," said Rose, who was watching the play from the on deck circle.

Rose also was pleased to get the winning hit since on April 18 in St. Louis' last game in Cincinnati, he also decided things with a game-tying homer game-winning double in the 12th.

"I'm just glad I was able to pick up where I left off," said Rose, remembering that game. "It's always great to play against the team that's on top."

Elsewhere in the National League, Pittsburgh blanked Houston 5-0. Los Angeles shutout Philadelphia 2-0, and Atlanta nipped Chicago 7-6.

Yanks Win 4-1, Lose 8-4

NEW YORK (UPI) — Don Mincher's three-run homer in the first inning led the California Angels to an 8-4 victory over New York Friday night and a doubleheader split after Firtz Peterson scattered eight hits in his first complete game victory this season to give the Yanks a 4-1 triumph in the opener.

Mincher's homer, his fourth of the season, came off starter and loser Bill Monbouquette after Paul Schaal and Jim Fregosi singled. The Angels added two more off Monbouquette in the second inning on Schaal's walk, Fregosi's triple and Roger Repoz's single.

The Angels got two more off Jim Bouton in the third. After Rick Reichardt and Jimmie Hall singled, Reichardt scored on Jake Gibbs' passed ball and Tom Satriano singled home Hall. Satriano homered in the fifth for the final Angel run.

Mickey Mantle hit a two-run homer in the first inning for the Yanks. It was the 525th of his career. But Jim McGlothlin, boosting his record to 5-4, coasted the rest of the way while allowing two runs on Charley Smith's pinch triple in the second and Bobby Cox's sacrifice fly in the seventh. McGlothlin gave up six hits.

In the first game, Peterson picked up his first complete game victory of the year by scattering eight hits. His record is now 3-2. George Brunet, who gave up four hits and three runs in five innings, took the loss although he was the victim of two unearned runs. Brunet is 5-6.

Bill Robinson hit his first homer in the third and the Yanks got their first unearned run in the fourth when Bobby Cox's homer scored Tom Tresh, who reached base on Jim Fregosi's throwing error. Bob Rodgers' wild throw to third, attempting to catch Ellie Rodriguez who was advancing from second on Brunet's wild pitch, enabled the other unearned run to score in the fifth.

Pair of Met Homers Defeat Giants, 4-0

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Sadecki (6-7) who was dropped in the ninth inning by Ron Swoboda and Tommy Agee helped propel the New York Mets to their fourth straight win Friday night, a 4-0 victory over the San Francisco Giants. Both blasts came at the expense of southpaw Ray Koonce.

With the Mets clinging to a 1-0 lead in the ninth, Ed Charles singled and Swoboda followed with his first homer in 26 games, a shot over the rightfield fence. It was Swoboda's ninth of the season. One off later, Agee socked his third of the year and Sadecki went to the showers.

Cleon Jones had broken a scoreless duel between Sadecki and winner Nolan Ryan (5-4) when he singled Al Weis across in the eighth. Jones' hit was the third straight single of the frame off Sadecki, who yielded a total of eleven safeties in 8 1/3 frames.

Ryan hurled seven full innings then gave way to Cal Koonce after walking the leadoff batter in the eighth. Koonce cemented the win by retiring all six batters he faced.

The Giants staged their biggest threat in the seventh when they loaded the bases with nobody out. But then Ryan fanned Jim Davenport and pinchhitter Jack Hitt, Sadecki followed with a high pop fly which catcher Jerry Nease snagged after the ball nearly fell safely between the mound and first base line.

Al Worthington ended the game when he struck out Bernie Allen on a 3-2 pitch with the bases loaded and two out in the Washington ninth.

Minnesota tied the nightcap at 2-2 on pinch-hitter Frank Kostro's single in the ninth. But the Senators came back to win the 10th when, with none out, Ed Stroud, Fred Valentine, Ken McMullen and Paul Casanova singled.

Al Dark's strategy backfired in Cleveland's loss to Detroit. With two out and Cleveland leading 4-3 in the bottom of the ninth, Dark moved rookie southpaw Mike Paul to first base and brought in right-hander Stan Williams to pitch to Bill Freehan, who singled.

Paul then returned to the mound and Lee Maye took over at first. But Maye fumbled Dick McAuliffe's grounder and Mickey Stanley followed with a two-run triple for the Detroit victory.

Carl Yastrzemski watched two wide pitches from Joe Horlen in the seventh inning, then got one down the middle. He slammed it into the right field seats for a two-run homer that gave Boston its victory. Duane Josephson homered for Chicago in the ninth.

Oakland gave Odom all the help he needed by scoring four runs in the second inning on Ramon Webster's double, three walks, Bert Campaneris' two-run single and Monday's RBI double.

Webster led the Athletics' second-game attack with a double and three singles. One of the singles launched a two-run rally in the fourth.

Minnesota gained its opening-game victory despite six errors. Ted Uhlaender's two-run homer gave Jim Kaat a 3-1 lead in the second, then Rich Rollins drove in the decisive run with a double in the eighth.

It added up to a 4-2 victory for the Cincinnati Reds Friday night that snapped the St. Louis Cardinals' winning streak at nine games.

Maloney, attempting to lay down a surprise sacrifice bunt with two strikes on him, wound up with a bunt single in the fourth inning that loaded the bases for Rose.

Rose, the National League's leading hitter, slapped a two-run single that snapped a 2-2 tie and gave the Reds their winning margin.

Maloney, allowing only six hits, blanked the Cards the rest of the way to gain his sixth victory against three losses.

"Maloney's bunt was perfect, he really surprised me by bunting with two strikes," said Rose, who was watching the play from the on deck circle.

Rose Pleased
Rose also was pleased to get the winning hit since on April 18 in St. Louis' last game in Cincinnati, he also decided things with a game-tying homer game-winning double in the 12th.

"I'm just glad I was able to pick up where I left off," said Rose, remembering that game. "It's always great to play against the team that's on top."

Elsewhere in the National League, Pittsburgh blanked Houston 5-0. Los Angeles shutout Philadelphia 2-0, and Atlanta nipped Chicago 7-6.

Glasco Keeps Pace, Snaps Hurling Skien

A three-run eruption in the sixth inning gave Glasco AC a come-from-behind 4-2 victory and snapped a 12-game winning streak by Michael's Barber Shop pitcher. Morse Wolves, Friday in the Saugerties Softball League's Yankee Division.

The win gave the Glasco team a 4-1 record, just a half-game off the 4-0 pace set by South Side Men's Club. Michael's, preseason choice, is third at 1-1.

Glasco's winning rally was started by Ray Lasher, who singled and went to third on a pair of infield outs. Vince Ferraro was clipped by a Woven serve, and the two base runs staged a double steal, Lasher knotting the score at 2-1 by absconding with home.

Ed Rizzo's single scored Ferraro to go ahead, and Joe Robert's blooper that fell in, scored Rizzo with the insurance tally.

Glasco took a 1-0 lead after the first on a pair of wild throws coupled with singles by Ray and Roy Lasher.

A run in the second and another in the fourth, three doubles and a single providing the hitting, put Michael's on top. In the Met Division, a double header Thursday found Ted's Esso up its league lead to a full game with a 4-2 victory over Helmsmoortel Insurance and King's Diner sent A. J. Scarsell's further into the cellar with a solid, 6-4 defeat.

Helmsmoortel had a chance to win it, scoring two in the sixth to bring the score close and had bases loaded with two out, but couldn't get the needed run off Ted's hurler, Maurice Hinchey.

King's moved into a tie for second place with Bo's Tavern by taking the win. King's, however, had a scare thrown into it by Scarsell's, who added a trio of runs in the bottom of the sixth.

Maloney - Rose Duo Gives Cincy 4-2 Win

A Game of Numbers

Thomas, James, Helmich
KHS Strikeout StarsBy MIKE HELFNER
(Freeman Sports Staff)

Who is the all-time strikeout specialist in Kingston High baseball history?

If you disregard the number of innings played in a single game, it would have to be Willard (Bill) Thomas of the 1932 Maroon nine coached by G. Warren Kias.

If you use best average per inning, it has to be Charlie James, 18-year-old senior on the

CHARLIE JAMES

Bulletin

James was drafted late yesterday by the Philadelphia Phillies. He received a call from scouts Ben Marnel and Elmer Vaio, informing him that the Phils had drafted him and that they would be in Kingston this week to watch him pitch either in the Rookie League or the City League. They indicated they would make an offer at that time.

1968 squad, who struck out 20 in a 10-inning, 1-1 tie against Saugerties High. James, however, got the 20 in the first nine innings for a 2.22 average per frame.

A third entry is Pete Helmich, a junior on the current team, who flirted with James' mark, as he whiffed 19 against Middletown in nine innings. His 2.11 average per frame carried him to victory.

Second With 24 Ks

Thomas, a picture pitcher with a blazing fast ball, sharp curve and superb control, set the record for most strikeouts with 24 in a 14-inning game against Middletown High. As spectacular as the performance was, it was overshadowed by his opponent, Mac Wagner, a southpaw and one of Middletown's all-time great athletes. Thomas was a right hander. Ironically, they battled to a 2-2 stalemate.

A check of the original scorebook, indicates that Thomas had 14 strikeouts on the board at the end of nine and Wagner had 17. So neither approached James' total or per-inning average. Regulation games in 1932 were nine innings long. Today state law limits schoolboy contests to seven innings.

The record books are vague on the subject of total strikeouts for a season.

Has High, Hard One

James, 6-foot-2, blond, close-cropped hair and highly personable, relies on his blazing fast-ball to put away opponents. His overhand curve and changeup are used to set up the batter for his high hard one that more often than not, has the batter bailing out from the speed of the delivery.

Helmich, also a blond, but who prefers his hair longer, is another speed-baller. Bepatched, the solidly built Helmich also relies on his fastball to register the out, but uses a twisting, curve 'em crazy, baffling knuckleball to set up opposing batters.

James, getting set for graduation this month, has a letter of acceptance and a baseball scholarship from Dartmouth College. He expects, however, to be drafted by one of five major league teams that have shown an ever-increasing interest.

At this point he says, "Frankly, I don't know what to do. It would be nice to take the money, but I do want to get an education. I might have some great years in college ball, forcing the money offers up, but then again, I could get hurt or lose my effectiveness, and then be worth nothing."

Scouts Trail Him

Helmich has none of those problems now. He is only a junior, but already, pro scouts are bird-dogging him, looking to see if he is future major league material.

Possessing the talent, but not the experience, Helmich just might surpass all the records set by James, Thomas, and all the other great pitchers to come out of Kingston. Record book names like Clark Maine, strikeout artist in the middle-to-late '40's who finished 20-1 in two seasons, and Brian Bach, now hurling for the University of Connecticut.

With the full 1968 season's experience and a whole summer to improve in, Helmich has the best chance of busting all hurling marks. He will be the basis for Rierzo's formation of the 1969 squad, that's for sure.

Trophy Winners
Named by SFGC

Five trophy winners were announced at the conclusion of the spring gun dog trials staged by the Saugerties Fish and Game Club. Seventeen persons entered dogs.

First prize went to Trouble, shown by Ike Perks and Randy Craft. Edwin Mower's Sarah was second. Other winners: Walt and Betty Decker's Blue; Lewis Myers' Shadrack and Bill Sperl's N.B.Q.

The trial was managed by the field trial committee and judged by Rick Booth of Cairo and Frank Doveigh of Kiskatom. Drawing and bracing of the hounds was handled by Joe Malone, secretary of the New Scotland Beagle Club.

The club plans another field trial in the fall open to beagle owners of any local sporting club.

Samuels Leads
Rock Victory

Bill Samuels powered two triples and knocked in three runs as Rock Construction topped Hurley, 8-4, at Dietz stadium yesterday in the Babe Ruth League American division.

Hurley led 1-0 until the third inning when five consecutive Construction hits scored five runs. That wasn't all for the winners, as they came back in the fourth with another three runs on two hits.

Hurley rallied in the fourth for two runs on hits by Dave Scholard, Lou Brown, Harold Johnston and Don Fisher, but the threat ended with the bases loaded.

Winner Fred Perry fanned four and walked five. Hurley hurler Johnston fanned five and walked five, allowing seven hits.

Big Fund Raiser
Quits Poor March

WASHINGTON (AP) — The month-old Poor People's Campaign, showing signs of withering, has lost the chief organizer for its planned massive June 19 rally in the nation's capital.

Although a new coordinator was named, his acceptance of the job was still in doubt today. Bayard Rustin, who built the 1963 Washington civil rights demonstration by 200,000 persons, bowed out as organizer Friday in a dispute over campaign aims.

The Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, heading the campaign, said the New York civil rights leader would be replaced by Sterling Tucker, executive director of the Washington chapter of the Urban League.

But a Tucker aide said afterward there would be no decision on whether to take the post until late today. The aide said Tucker had other commitments and "has not given Mr. Abernathy any answer yet."

The June 19 demonstration on the steps of the Lincoln Memorial is considered crucial to reviving momentum in the campaign.

Protest marches have been announced and canceled frequently in recent days.

On Friday, leaders halted demonstrations over the weekend in mourning for the slain Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

The anti-poverty rally at Lincoln Memorial will come three days after the scheduled expiration of the campground permit, but Abernathy said again Friday, "We are not going to be run out."

Rustin's resignation was triggered when he issued a set of goals for the campaign less sweeping than those originally listed by Abernathy and his aides.

When one of Abernathy's assistants ridiculed the statement and dismissed Rustin as a public relations man, Rustin wired Abernathy asking reassurance of his authority over the rally. He set a noon deadline Friday for a reply and resigned when it expired.

Abernathy told a news conference he talked with Rustin by telephone and asked him to continue. But, Abernathy said, "He decided he wanted out and he resigned."

Abernathy said the rally would proceed anyway. He insisted, "We are not going to allow the enemies of the campaign the satisfaction of seeing it collapse."

U.S. Reserve Board
Hikes Stock Margin

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Reserve Board, moving to slow speculation in stocks, now requires that persons buying stocks and convertible bonds on credit make bigger down payments.

The board raised the down payment to 80 per cent of the purchase price on stocks and 60 per cent on bonds which can later be converted into stock. The action was announced Friday.

The old margin requirements were 70 per cent on stocks and 50 per cent on bonds.

Although the new requirements went into effect today the first practical effect will come Monday when the stock exchanges reopen.

The new credit restrictions apply only to new loans by brokers, banks and other lenders to buy or carry stocks and convertible bonds listed on national stock exchanges.

In New York, Robert W. Haack, president of the New York Stock Exchange, said the move appears to be cautionary to prevent excessive speculation. He called it constructive.

The American Stock Exchange said the board acted in the interests of the economy.

Under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, the board has power to fix margin requirements to prevent excessive use of credit in buying.

It said margin credit of brokerage customers jumped $200 million during April, raising the total outstanding credit at brokerage firms to $6.4 billion. There were indications of a further rise in May.

Recent increases in credit, the board said, mark a resumption of a trend observed in 1967 when credit rose 29 per cent at brokerage houses and 19 per cent at commercial banks.

First Woman
Heart Transplant
Dies in Hospital

DALLAS (UPI)—The world's first woman heart transplant recipient died on the operating table Friday night an hour and a half after the organ was implanted.

Mrs. Esther Matthews, a 41-year-old Negro housewife, received the new heart in a four and one-half hour operation performed in Parkland Memorial Hospital by a surgical team from the University of Texas Southwestern Medical School.

The heart donor was identified by Parkland officials as Bobby Wayne Blocker, 26, a Euless, Tex., used car dealer who died of injuries received in an auto accident Wednesday.

The operation was the world's 21st heart transplant attempt and the fifth thus far in Texas. Only six of the 20 previous transplant patients remained alive today, including two in Houston, one in Cape Town and one in Sao Paulo, Brazil.

Dr. Watts Webb, who headed the transplant team, said after the operation, "technically, the transplant was satisfactory with the heart restarting and beating . . . with a normal rhythm and blood pressure for nearly one and one-half hours."

"The heart then progressively failed for unknown reasons," Watts said. "A cardiac assist pump was used for a short period, but all means failed to change the outcome."

He said Mrs. Matthews died on the operating table at 9:30 p.m.

Parkland officials said the operation began at 5:45 p.m. just over an hour after Blocker's heart stopped beating.

Town of Ulster
Senior Citizens
Meet at Katrine

The Town of Ulster Senior Citizens Association held its second meeting at the Lake Katrine Grange Hall on Wednesday evening at which time Russell Brott who is serving in the capacity of advisor to the group acted as temporary chairman to formulate plans for organization of the group.

Brott read several suggestions which had been discussed by the appointed committee. Upon these recommendations the temporary chairman asked for nominations for officers for the Association.

Mrs. Lawrence Scanlon of Nicholas Street was elected as first president of the Association; Mrs. Katie Boehm was elected Vice-President; Raymond Webster, as Secretary and Mrs. James Krom as Treasurer.

The next meeting of the Association will be held on the second Wednesday of the month, July 10. The Association is now in the hands of the elected officers to formulate plans for their meetings and what type of recreation they would like to participate in.

Twenty-eight persons attended and from all indications there were new faces seen at the meeting which would indicate a desire for Senior Citizens group in the Town of Ulster.

The open house event scheduled Sunday afternoon for the new building housing Mutual Aid Fire Headquarters at Golden Hill adjacent to the County Infirmary Annex has been postponed due to the day of mourning declared for the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Big Fund Raiser
Quits Poor March

WASHINGTON (AP) — The month-old Poor People's Campaign, showing signs of withering, has lost the chief organizer for its planned massive June 19 rally in the nation's capital.

Although a new coordinator was named, his acceptance of the job was still in doubt today. Bayard Rustin, who built the 1963 Washington civil rights demonstration by 200,000 persons, bowed out as organizer Friday in a dispute over campaign aims.

The Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, heading the campaign, said the New York civil rights leader would be replaced by Sterling Tucker, executive director of the Washington chapter of the Urban League.

But a Tucker aide said afterward there would be no decision on whether to take the post until late today. The aide said Tucker had other commitments and "has not given Mr. Abernathy any answer yet."

The June 19 demonstration on the steps of the Lincoln Memorial is considered crucial to reviving momentum in the campaign.

Protest marches have been announced and canceled frequently in recent days.

On Friday, leaders halted demonstrations over the weekend in mourning for the slain Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

The anti-poverty rally at Lincoln Memorial will come three days after the scheduled expiration of the campground permit, but Abernathy said again Friday, "We are not going to be run out."

Rustin's resignation was triggered when he issued a set of goals for the campaign less sweeping than those originally listed by Abernathy and his aides.

When one of Abernathy's assistants ridiculed the statement and dismissed Rustin as a public relations man, Rustin wired Abernathy asking reassurance of his authority over the rally. He set a noon deadline Friday for a reply and resigned when it expired.

Abernathy told a news conference he talked with Rustin by telephone and asked him to continue. But, Abernathy said, "He decided he wanted out and he resigned."

Abernathy said the rally would proceed anyway. He insisted, "We are not going to allow the enemies of the campaign the satisfaction of seeing it collapse."

U.S. Reserve Board
Hikes Stock Margin

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Reserve Board, moving to slow speculation in stocks, now requires that persons buying stocks and convertible bonds on credit make bigger down payments.

The board raised the down payment to 80 per cent of the purchase price on stocks and 60 per cent on bonds which can later be converted into stock. The action was announced Friday.

The old margin requirements were 70 per cent on stocks and 50 per cent on bonds. Although the new requirements went into effect today the first practical effect will come Monday when the stock exchanges reopen.

The new credit restrictions apply only to new loans by brokers, banks and other lenders to buy or carry stocks and convertible bonds listed on national stock exchanges.

In New York, Robert W. Haack, president of the New York Stock Exchange, said the move appears to be cautionary to prevent excessive speculation. He called it constructive.

The American Stock Exchange said the board acted in the interests of the economy. Under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, the board has power to fix margin requirements to prevent excessive use of credit in stock buying.

It said margin credit of brokerage customers jumped $200 million during April, raising the total outstanding credit at brokerage firms to $6.4 billion. There were indications of a further rise in May.

Recent increases in credit, the board said, mark a resumption of a trend observed in 1967 when credit rose 29 per cent at brokerage houses and 19 per cent at commercial banks.

First Woman
Heart Transplant
Dies in Hospital

DALLAS (UPI) — The world's first woman heart transplant recipient died on the operating table Friday night an hour and a half after the organ was implanted.

Mrs. Esther Matthews, a 41-year-old Negro housewife, received the new heart in a four and one half hour operation performed in Parkland Memorial Hospital by a surgical team from the University of Texas Southwestern Medical School.

The heart donor was identified by Parkland officials as Bobby Wayne Blocker, 26, a Euless, Tex., used car dealer who died of injuries received in an auto accident Wednesday.

The operation was the world's 21st heart transplant attempt and the fifth thus far in Texas. Only six of the 20 previous transplant patients remained alive today, including two in Houston, one in Paris, one in London, one in Cape Town and one in Sao Paulo, Brazil.

Dr. Watts Webb, who headed the transplant team, said after the operation, "technically, the transplant was satisfactory with the heart restarting and beating... with a normal rhythm and blood pressure for nearly one and one-half hours."

"The heart then progressively failed for unknown reasons," Watts said. "A cardiac assist pump was used for a short period, but all means failed to change the outcome."

He said Mrs. Matthews died on the operating table at 9:30 p.m. Parkland officials said the operation began at 5:45 p.m. just over an hour after Blocker's heart stopped beating.

Town of Ulster
Senior Citizens
Meet at Katrine

The Town of Ulster Senior Citizens Association held its second meeting at the Lake Katrine Grange Hall on Wednesday evening at which time Russell Brott who is serving in the capacity of advisor to the group acted as temporary chairman to formulate plans for organization of the group.

Brott read several suggestions which had been discussed by the appointed committee. Upon these recommendations the temporary chairman asked for nominations for officers for the Association.

Mrs. Lawrence Scanlon of Nicholas Street was elected as first president of the Association; Mrs. Katie Boehm was elected Vice-President; Raymond Webster, as Secretary and Mrs. James Krom as Treasurer.

The next meeting of the Association will be held on the second Wednesday of the month, July 10. The Association is now in the hands of the elected officers to formulate plans for their meetings and what type of recreation they would like to participate in.

Twenty-eight persons attended and from all indications there were new faces seen at the meeting which would indicate a desire for Senior Citizens group in the Town of Ulster.

Postpone Open House

The open house event scheduled Sunday afternoon for the new building housing Mutual Aid Fire Headquarters at Golden Hill adjacent to the County Infirmary Annex has been postponed due to the day of mourning declared for the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

The open house has been rescheduled for next Sunday June 16 at 2 p.m.

Crampton Leads
Indy Golf by Two

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — Bruce Crampton whipped around Speedway's sun-scorched acres with his second sub-par round Friday to hold his lead at the halfway mark of the "500" Festival Open Golf Tournament with a 36-hole score of 138, six under par.

Going into the third round of the $100,000 tournament, the Australian veteran, who won his last major tournament here three years ago, remained two strokes ahead of the pack.

Only 18 players beat par. Crampton added a two-under-par 70 to an opening round of 68.

Sam Snead, Lou Graham and Mike Hill were Crampton's closest challengers at 140, four under par. Four others, including defending champion Frank Beard, carded 141s.

Ken Stilled was alone at 142, and nine others were tied at 143. Four more were even par, 144.

Samuels Leads
Rock Victory

Bill Samuels powered two triples and knocked in three runs as Rock Construction topped Hurley, 8-4, at Dietz stadium yesterday in the Babe Ruth League American division. Hurley led 1-0 until the third inning when five consecutive Construction hits scored five runs. That wasn't all for the winners, as they came back in the fourth with another three runs on two hits.

Hurley rallied in the fourth for two runs on hits by Dave Scholander, Dan Brown, Harold Johnston and Don Fisher, but the threat ended with the bases loaded.

Winner Fred Perry fanned four and walked five. Hurley hurler Johnston fanned five and walked five, allowing seven hits.

Dear Abby

Gets the Blame for Tale

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1968 by Chicago Tribune
N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My son called me on the phone, and I was totally unprepared for the bawling out I got.

It seems that my 4-year-old grandson had been crying all day. He was afraid to go outside alone and play for fear the "boogie man" or "trash man" would carry him off.

My son said he asked the boy who had told him a story like that, and he said, "Granny did." Abby, I have not been over to their house in 2 weeks. Besides, I would never think of telling my grandson such a frightening tale. (I never told my own children anything like that, so why would I tell it to my grandson?)

When I tried to explain that I was completely innocent, my son refused to listen. All he said was, "The child couldn't have made it up, and you MUST have told him."

I can't tell you how much this hurt me, to get the blame for something I didn't do. And then to be practically called a liar by my own son. What would you do in my place, Abby?

S. B. P.

DEAR M. C.: Your son should be made to understand that young children very often confuse fantasy with reality (and even dreams!) and are not always accurate in their reporting. If your son doesn't believe this, HIS son might grow up before he does.

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter is being married soon, and I have had so many phone calls from friends asking, "What does Nancy need?" This puts me on the spot because Nancy "needs" a lot of things, but I haven't the faintest idea of how much these people want to spend, so what can I say?

Yesterday, one of my dear friends called and asked if Nancy "needed" sheets and pillow cases. I replied, "Yes, she does." Then I thought, "She had better mention that Nancy was going to have a king-sized bed, so my friend blurted out, 'KING-SIZED? Good heavens, I can't afford sheets for a bed that size!' I felt like two cents, so I quickly added, 'But she could also use some tea towels.' Abby, will you please tell women who ask for suggestions on what to buy a bride to please ask like this: 'Can Nancy use an electric mixer?' Or, 'What color is her kitchen. I want to buy her a couple of dish cloths.' ON THE SPOT

DEAR ON: Some brides "register" with a local store and the items they "need" are listed to avoid duplications. Clew Nancy in on this. It will not only help Nancy's friends, it will relieve you of much embarrassment.

DEAR ABBY: What does a man do when he has fallen in love with a girl who is engaged to marry someone else? I know it sounds insane, but when I met Ruth she had already accepted an engagement ring from another man. She did not tell me she was engaged until after I was so in love with her I couldn't help myself. She said she didn't tell me because she didn't want to "lose" me.

Abby, I love Ruth and she says she loves me, but she hasn't the heart to break the engagement. She says if I will return the ring and make the explanations for her, she will marry me. I have never met her a lot of things, but I haven't

One Set Lost By Thinking

By Oswald and James Jacoby

In general, the lower the contract the more variations are possible in the play. At the one level you expect to lead your opponents gain the lead several times and can hope they won't find the best return.

In slam contracts you can't afford to give the opponents the lead more than once. If they get in a second time you will have been set.

South was one point shy for his jump to three no-trump and North was quite a bit shy for his jump to six. Not that the contract was hopeless. South had 10 top tricks and would make his slam if East held both the king of spades and ace of diamonds.

The first trick went to dummy's ace of hearts and South looked things over. Should he start by running off the club suit? East and West would have no trouble discarding but South would. Furthermore, play of the clubs would give East and West a chance to see what South's problems really were.

Therefore South played dummy's three of diamonds at trick two and went right up with his king. At this point West could have taken his ace and returned a diamond to set the slam two tricks or he could just have taken his ace and let South whittle for his 12th trick but unfortunately for the defense West had been thinking while

South was planning his play and West had come to the conclusion that South's hand was just what it was plus the queen of diamonds. In that case, if West took his ace of diamonds South would fall back on the spade finesse for his 12th trick while if West ducked South might lead a second diamond to make the needed trick in that suit.

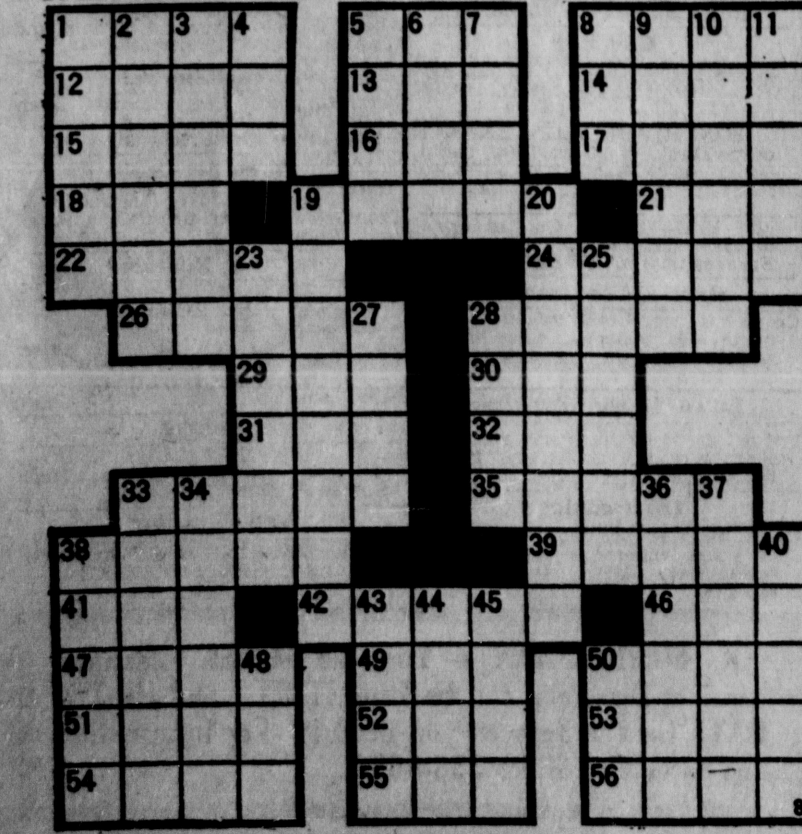

But after the king of diamonds held South cashed the clubs and hearts. Then he took the spade finesse to make his contract.

IN THE MIDDLE

DEAR IN: You are not yet "in the middle" unless you put yourself there. If any one returns the ring, it should be Ruth. Furthermore, I hope you realize that you are "in love" with a girl who accepted an engagement ring from a man, was not wearing it when you met her, and didn't admit to being engaged until after she encouraged you to fall in love with her. Doesn't this spell out something to you?

Bridge One Set Lost By Thinking

By Oswald and James Jacoby

In general, the lower the contract the more variations are possible in the play. At the one level you expect to let your opponents gain the lead several times and can hope they won't find the best return.

In slam contracts you can't afford to give the opponents the lead more than once. If they get in a second time you will have been set.

South was one point shy for his jump to three no-trump and North was quite a bit shy for his jump to six. Not that the contract was hopeless. South had 10 top tricks and would make his slam if East held both the king of spades and ace of diamonds.

The first trick went to dummy's ace of hearts and South looked things over. Should he start by running off the club suit? East and West would have no trouble discarding but South would. Furthermore, play of the clubs would give East and West a chance to see what South's problems really were.

Therefore South played dummy's three of diamonds at trick two and went right up with his king. At this point West could have taken his ace and returned a diamond to set the slam two tricks or he could just have taken his ace and let South whistle for his 12th trick but unfortunately for the defense West had been thinking while

South was planning his play and West had come to the conclusion that South's hand was just what it was plus the queen of diamonds. In that case, if West took his ace of diamonds South would fall back on the spade finesse for this 12th trick while if West ducked South might lead a second diamond to make the needed trick in that suit.

But after the king of diamonds held South cashed the clubs and hearts. Then he took the spade finesse to make his contract.

Tough on Love Life: Lainie

HOLLYWOOD — Sexy singer Lainie Kazan, a girl nature put together just to arouse a man's prurient interest, admits that being a showbiz success makes it tough on a girl's love life. "This whole business puts the female in such a horrendous role. There's such a terrible conflict," says the tall, dark and beautiful Brooklyn girl.

Has to Be Watchful

"You want to be a wife, mother and all things to a man. But at the same time you think, 'I've got an interview tomorrow, and I have to do this or that, and I've got my act. You're so torn.'"

At the same time, Lainie admits, a girl who may be pulling down half a million a year on her own has to be watchful that the guy she goes with isn't just interested in a buck.

"The situation makes you not trust. It really frightens me. Sometimes I think I'd rather not get married, that if I love somebody we can work it out," she said.

"It might be better if people just signed a contract, with options. People would feel free. I think marriages would last longer if people didn't have to say 'I'm married!'"

But then, she adds, "Children get in the way of all that—and I want to have children. I just have that great desire for someone to come along and say, 'I'm going to take care of it all.'"

Career Doesn't Show It

If the lady is having love life problems, her career doesn't show it. She has just finished two films, "Lady In Cement" with Frank Sinatra and "Day-

tona's Devils" with Leslie Nielsen. She sang one of the nominated songs at the Academy Awards and got good reviews. She has a new album, "Lainie Is Love," on the MGM label, coming out and she has an engagement at the Alhambra in Las Vegas, doing four weeks with singer-mimic Frank Gorshin.

Lainie said working with Sinatra was "just marvelous." He kept her going while she was doing two shows a night at the Fontainebleau and the movie during the day.

"I'd get the script at night. Maybe I'd blow a couple of lines. He'd tell me, 'Hey, Lainie, it's not Hamlet. Don't worry. Make up your own lines.'"

"Also he told me, 'You've got to live hard, and love hard, and work hard' and I think it shows in his songs, he does all these things."

She was co-billed with insult comic Don Rickles at the Fontainebleau, a man Sinatra calls "Hitler's son."

"Don didn't pick on me during the show, but he sure did at the beach. I end up with a dramatic Porgy and Bess medley, and he'd say terrible things."

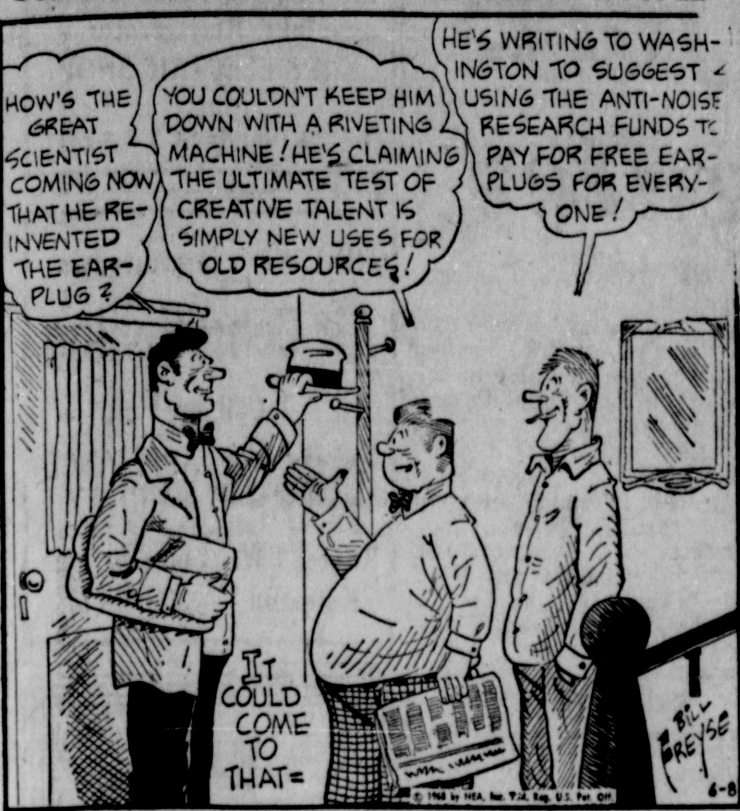

"He told me, 'Don't you know how to get offstage? I waited in the wings 45 minutes during your last number. A palio victim with 25 pounds of braces on each leg could walk off stage faster than you walk.'"

"Isn't that terrible? I think he's wonderful."

Tough on Love Life: Lainie

HOLLYWOOD — Sexy singer Lainie Kazan, a girl nature put together just to arouse a man's prurient interest, admits that being a showbiz success makes it tough on a girl's love life.

"This whole business puts the female in such a horrendous role. There's such a terrible conflict," says the tall, dark and beautiful Brooklyn girl.

Has to Be Watchful

"You want to be a wife, mother and all things to a man. But at the same time you think, 'I've got an interview tomorrow, and I have to do this or that, and I've got my act. You're so torn.'"

At the same time, Lainie admits, a girl who may be pulling down half a million a year on her own has to be watchful that the guy she goes with isn't just interested in a buck.

"The situation makes you not trust. It really frightens me. Sometimes I think I'd rather not get married, that if I love somebody we can work it out," she said.

"It might be better if people just signed a contract, with options. People would feel free. I think marriages would last longer if people didn't have to say 'I'm married!'"

But then, she adds, "Children get in the way of all that—and I want to have children. I just have that great desire for someone to come along and say, 'I'm going to take care of it.'"

Career Doesn't Show It

If the lady is having love-life problems, her career doesn't show it. She has just finished two films, "Lady in Cement" with Frank Sinatra and "Day-

tona's Devils" with Leslie Nielsen. She sang one of the nominated songs at the Academy Awards and got good reviews. She has a new album, "Lainie Is Love," on the MGM label, coming out and she has an engagement at the Alamo in Las Vegas, doing four weeks with singer-mimic Frank Gorshin.

Lainie said working with Sinatra was "just marvelous." He kept her going while she was doing two shows a night at the Fontainebleau and the movie during the day.

"I'd get the script at night. Maybe I'd blow a couple of lines. He'd tell me, 'Hey, Lainie, it's not Hamlet. Don't worry. Make up your own lines.'"

"Also he told me, 'You've got to live hard, and love hard, and work hard' and I think it shows in his songs, he does all these things."

She was co-billed with insult comic Don Rickles at the Fontainebleau, a man Sinatra calls "Hitler's son."

"Don didn't pick on me during the show, but he sure did at the beach. I end up with a dramatic Porgy and Bess medley, and he'd say terrible things."

"He told me, 'Don't you know how to get offstage? I waited in the wings 45 minutes during your last number. A polio victim with 25 pounds of braces on each leg could walk off stage faster than you walk.'"

"Isn't that terrible? I think he's wonderful."

"Also he told me, 'You've got to live hard, and love hard, and work hard' and I think it shows in his songs, he does all these things."

"Also he told me, 'You've got to live hard, and love hard, and work hard' and I think it shows in his songs, he does all these things."

The formal court of inquiry, entering its fourth day of hearings today, heard testimony Friday affirming previous witnesses who said there were minor mechanical faults in the attack submarine's equipment but nothing that jeopardized its seaworthiness.

McCarthy's Main Effort: Convince Dem Delegates

BY CARL P. LEUBSDORF
WASHINGTON (AP)—A close adviser to Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy says Robert F. Kennedy's violent death is leading the Minnesotan to conclude that his own White House bid has become a more pertinent, urgent undertaking.

Kennedy and McCarthy, despite tough primary battles, agreed on a great many issues, most notably in their opposition to the administration's Vietnam war policy.

Kennedy's assassination means that for the first time since the New Hampshire primary last March, the issue will be clearly drawn between McCarthy and the administration in the form of Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, his only rival for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Candidates Meet

McCarthy and Humphrey met for about 30 minutes Friday to discuss the best way to conduct the campaign.

McCarthy's adviser, asking not to be named, said the senator is going through "a very difficult personal period" because of Kennedy's death.

But, he added, McCarthy will begin campaigning again next week, "hopefully with renewed significance to what he is doing."

"I am convinced he is inexorably reaching the conclusion this really makes it a more pertinent and a more urgent undertaking. I think that, given a little passage of time, this tragedy leaves the issues pretty clear."

McCarthy is expected to combine a renewed challenge to the administration with a warning of a Democratic election disaster in November unless the party switches course by nominating him.

He is due to speak in New York Thursday before the Fellowship for Reconciliation, a Quaker group.

McCarthy delegates are competing in most of New York State's 41 congressional districts for the state's June 18 primary.

Humphrey aides said Friday he would not campaign for several more weeks. He thus will presumably miss the New York contest.

McCarthy's main effort from now on will be to convince delegates to the August Democratic National Convention of his belief that national opinion is running against the administration and its course in Vietnam.

Uphill Fight

Another McCarthy adviser conceded the senator faces an uphill fight against Humphrey but added: "There is a good chance that by August the opinion in the country is going to be such that delegates are going to re-examine their earlier preferences."

The McCarthy camp discounts claims of delegate strength by the Humphrey forces, which showed the vice president close to a first-ballot victory even be-

The formal court of inquiry, entering its fourth day of hearings today, heard testimony Friday affirming previous witnesses who said there were minor mechanical faults in the attack submarine's equipment but nothing that jeopardized its seaworthiness.

Capt. Wallace Greene, commander of submarine division 62 of which the Scorpion was a part, summed up his study of the eight-year-old vessel's condition with the statement that Scorpion was "fully ready for sea" when she set out from the Azores two weeks ago for Norfolk.

Although the vessel and its 99 men are officially classified "lost in the depths of the Atlantic," the search went on for the 13th day today.

Officials said ships specially equipped for deep water search were concentrating on an area south of the Azores where the Scorpion was last heard from by radio on May 21.

The area has many undersea mountains. Witnesses testified earlier that some are not accurately depicted on the Navy charts the Scorpion was using, making a plausible case for the undersea collision theory some court members appeared to feel was the probable explanation of the tragedy.

A note of mystery was introduced Friday when Greene told the court the Scorpion was off course at the time of its last radio transmission because it was on a secret mission.

The McCarthy camp discounts claims of delegate strength by the Humphrey forces, which showed the vice president close to a first-ballot victory even before last Tuesday's California primary.

And the McCarthy men contend party leaders backing Humphrey won't be able to hold delegates in line if public opinion polls and other indicators show the vice president would be a likely loser in November to the probable Republican nominee, Richard M. Nixon.

McCarthy was expected to set up a meeting shortly with President Johnson to discuss the campaign, as he did Friday with Humphrey.

'Lower Manor' Comes to Life Again

He was as famous in his own time, as say, Queen Elizabeth or Charles DeGaulle today. The history books never fail to mention his name for his life was tied completely to the early years of this country. No story of the American Revolution, the Declaration of Independence or George Washington can be told without reference to him. The same is true of accounts of the Louisiana Purchase and Robert Fulton's steamboat.

He was Chancellor Robert R. Livingston and, only a short ride from here (west of N. Y. Route 9G on County Road 6 in the Town of Clermont) lies his ancestral home and what remains of the original "Lower Manor" of the famous Livingston clan of history.

The son of a judge, whose first name and middle initial he was given, and of Margaret Beekman Livingston, daughter of Col. Henry Beekman of Rhinebeck, the future Chancellor was born in New York City in 1746 in the family's winter residence. Most of his youth, however, was spent at Clermont.

Belvedere Built

After his marriage to Mary Stevens in 1770, he built his first home at Clermont in 1773 and this residence, called "Belvedere" remained his base of operations and the center of family life for himself, his wife and two daughters.

Although fate ordained that he would become a member of the Second Continental Congress and was elected to draft the Declaration of Independence along with four other members of that august body, his signature does not appear on this document of documents. He was absent from the signing in Philadelphia, having rushed home to New York to take care of his duties as a member of the Provincial Assembly for the defense of the Hudson River Valley.

And there was no question that the valley needed defense as the English came sailing up the river in the infamous campaign of 1777 to destroy the villages and houses of the colonists. Clermont was not spared and the British took delight in burning both Belvedere and the neighboring home of Livingston's mother.

Undaunted, that spunky lady returned almost immediately after the cinders cooled to begin the task of rebuilding.

Two Important Jobs

Still greater things were in store for Robert Livingston as the fledgling nation of America burst on the world scene. In 1871 he was appointed First Minister of Foreign Affairs and in 1783 to his position as Chancellor of New York. In this job he administered the Oath of Office to George Washington when he became the first president of the United States.

When Thomas Jefferson became president, he appointed Livingston as Minister to France and, in this capacity, he was highly instrumental in securing the Louisiana Purchase. In France, too, he met Robert Fulton, a meeting that eventually led Livingston to supply the necessary funds for Fulton to complete the experiments which produced the Clermont, the first practical steamboat.

The Clermont stopped at Livingston's ancestral home on her maiden voyage up the Hudson from New York to Albany in 1807 and, on that occasion, Livingston's cousin, Harriet, announced her engagement to Robert Fulton.

Just Opened

So it is that Clermont State Park, with the Livingston home, the Clermont Museum and its beautiful grounds, is now open to the public through Labor Day. A Hudson contractor has just completed construction of the $140,000 project to provide access to the historic site and a 100-car parking area, comfort station, drinking fountains and walks have made it possible for visitors to recall the Revolution, and the events which followed its end.

Although picnic facilities are not available as yet at Clermont Park, it is open for guided tours daily from 9 p. m. to 5 p. m. These tours are geared for groups of up to 10 persons and large groups should make advance arrangements in order to assure proper accommodations. School groups would be wise to plan tours during the week, if possible, in order to avoid delays and long waits at the home and museum since this now historical attraction is expected to be highly popular locally.

All Through the Day At Newport Festival

The Newport Folk Festival is envisioned by many as warm moonlit evenings filled with some of America's greatest music. However, there is much to be enjoyed in the daytime hours during Folk Festival week. This year's festival, July 23-28, at Newport's Festival Field will be no exception.

For the third year, Children's Day will be held on Wednesday (July 24) from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. The appearance of the Bread and Puppet Theatre, Jim Kwikin, and Taj Mahal alone could satisfy the needs of young people from four to 16, but the program will also include Sam Hinton, Bernice Reagon and two representatives of North America's first citizens Henry Crow-dog, an American Indian, and Allannis Obomsawin, from Canada. It will be a program of song, dance, drama, from old times to the electric sounds of the '60s.

Thursday at 1 p.m. will bring a repeat of last year's Hootenanny for folk festival fans who choose to sing for others. As last year, the names of people wishing to perform will be placed in a hat and a drawing will be held prior to 1 p.m.

On Friday, July 26 and Saturday, July 27, the workshops will take over the daylight hours at Festival Field. With as many as 20 to 30 workshops all held informally, the festival directors hope to continue the close ties that performers have had with audiences at Newport. It is during this time that many will have the opportunity to speak as well as listen to their favorite artists.

Sunday morning and afternoon will present artists in a more formal setting. Sunday morning, a concert of religious music will be held. In the afternoon, the Contemporary Scene will be represented. Tim Buckley, John Hartford, Taj Mahal, Judy Collins, Frank Proffitt, Jr. and others will participate in this concert.

Launch SPAC's Folk-Rock Festival

A Folk-Rock Festival featuring three of the nation's most popular musical groups will launch the Saratoga Performing Arts Center's 1968 pre-season events this month.

The award-winning quintet, The Fifth Dimension; the versatile Spanky and Our Gang; and the dynamic singers, The American Breed, will perform on Tuesday, June 25, at 8:30 p. m. in the SPAC amphitheater.

Four Grammy awards were captured by The Fifth Dimension for its swinging rendition of "Up, Up and Away." The group received citations for Record of the Year, Best Performance by a Vocal Group, Best Contemporary Single and Best Contemporary Group Performance.

Appealing to all ages, The Fifth Dimension's unique new sound has won praise from audiences and critics alike. They have been called "great stage performers ranking with the best around today."

Spanky and Our Gang will be making its second appearance before SPAC audiences. Spanky (Elaine McFarlane) and her five cronies play various kinds of music, from jug-band tunes to country-western to folk-rock, with stops at musical comedy songs and contemporary folk music.

Spanky, head of the group, plays the electric jug, the washboard and the tambourine, blues Dixieland style, and sings as well.

Dancers Draw Crowd; Auction Scene Silent

17-KINGSTON DAILY FREEMAN, JUNE 8, 1968

THEIR TRAVELS ENDED, bench-type theatre seats which have seen more than 30 years of service in the Woodstock Playhouse, looked abandoned and unwanted on Playhouse lawn last Saturday morning. Old style seats were slated for auctioning off after being replaced by 600 genuine, red plush chair-type seats. Auction of the colorful old relics attracted no buyers, despite the memories they might have aroused in someone's rec room or den. Lovers of live drama who endured stiff-backed and now discarded benches for the past three decades, may or may not miss them—since their successors are wide, deep, soft and comfortable. Still, their demise chips off another small piece of local history. (Freeman photo by Haines)

THE TRAVELING FOLK DANCERS of Rifton's Society of Brothers brought their colorful bus to the shopping center parking lot in Woodstock last Saturday afternoon. A large crowd of art colony residents and Memorial Day Weekend tourists gathered to applaud the dancers' performances as they twirled gracefully through their old world routines. Pretty girls with waist-length braids flying and young men from this unique community that tries to live out the Sermon on the Mount, presented a two-hour program on the black-topped parking lot. Accompanied by musicians on left, the dancers completely charmed bystanders. Traveling bus also boasts book stand where a wide variety of books, printed by the community's Plough Publishing House at Rifton, are displayed. (Freeman photo by Haines.)

Cue's Impressed by Cornwall's D-T

Up from New York City recently to attend a performance at Playhouse on the Hudson came representatives of the writing staff of Cue Magazine. And the people from Cue, the nation's largest entertainment and restaurant guide were favorably impressed by the dinner-theatre at Cornwall-on-Hudson which has been featured time and time again in TEMPO in recent months. The comments of the Cue staff were duly reported in the May 25 issue of that magazine.

In fact, Cue strongly recommended that all persons who have not had the pleasure of attending one of the professional Broadway productions at the Playhouse should make an effort to do so this summer.

Currently appearing at the Playhouse is "Once Upon a Mattress" starring Robin Douglas. Both the cast and the theatre have received rave reviews for this excellent production. The summer season opens June 12 with "Gypsy," followed by "The Sound of Music" on June 26, "The Student Prince" on July 12, "West Side Story" July 31 — and "The King and I" closes out the summertime performances beginning Aug. 14.

Readers of TEMPO will know that the Playhouse on the Hudson is reasonably new to this area; opened officially last November with a production of "Any Wednesday."

TEMPO can verify that theatre goes making the trip to the Playhouse will find an enjoyable and entertaining evening in store simply because of the many original features this establishment boasts. First off, the Playhouse is the first proscenium dinner-theatre in the country. And the dinners are excellent, offering a choice between Chicken Cacciatore, Beef Stroganoff, Filet of Sole Provencal and, for a slightly higher fee Prime Ribs in a Beefsteak Cut. There's no stinting on the menu and the dinner includes appetizer, chef's salad with dressing, rolls and butter, potato, vegetables du jour, dessert and coffee or tea.

Dinner is served between 6:30 and 8 p.m. and, if you're the early bird type, you'll find added fun in the upstairs sing-a-long bar before sitting down to the table. Complimentary hors d'oeuvres and before dinner cocktails are enjoyed there as patrons join producer Neil Love for songs around the piano.

After the dinner and show, it's usually everyone back to the bar again for more fun into the wee hours of the ayem. That's when the cast joins Love and patrons for a fun-filled sing-a-long in which everyone present joins forces.

Terrace Planned

Current plans also call for the Playhouse to open a terrace for moonlight dancing and more sing-along to the clinking of cocktails.

Notable is the fact that the cast consists of many talented young people from all over the country. Actors and actresses hail from New York City, as far west as California, and from the South. Their experience is extensive, runs the gamut in show business from television to nightclubs. Together they have made of the Playhouse on the Hudson a thoroughly professional theatre.

The management has also announced special group rates for all organizations with up to 30 per cent discounts. Prices for a complete evening of entertainment, including dinner, vary slightly on Friday and Saturday nights. For show prices only on Wednesday and Thursday and on Friday and Saturday, the fees are much reduced. Reservations are suggested and Ulster and Dutchess residents planning to attend should call the theatre in advance.

Let's Take a Trip to the 'Family-Fun' Seven

Spring visits with the operators of the "family-fun", seven members all of the Adirondack Attractions Association turned up news of almost a million dollars of investments this year in new features, facilities, rides and shows for the 1968 tourist season.

Now that the Adirondack Northway, U.S. 87, is complete over its 190 mile length from Albany to Canada, the Attractions expect a major influx of summer visitors to the 2,000,000 acre Adirondack Park. All association members are within the Park on improved roads leading from the Northway exits.

For example, Ausable Chasm on Rt. 9 near Keeseville, N. Y. will launch new "bateau" this year on its famous boat ride through the Chasm. Chasm bateau are patterned after French craft that plied the waters of Lake Champlain and Lake George during the French and Indian War. Ausable Chasm is more than a mile long with walls rising 100 to 200 feet cut through Potsdam sandstone by the Ausable River on its way to Lake Champlain.

Steel bridges and rails criss-cross the Chasm presenting unique geological sights to visitors.

Fairy Forest

Enchanted Forest at Old Forge, N. Y. in the Central Adirondacks, lives up to its name and more! Paul Bunyan, Ali Baba's Cave, the Pirate Ship, King Arthur's Castle and many other fairyland settings dot the cool pine forests.

Weekends this year will be studded with some of the greatest circus stars in the world including the Great Wallendas . . . famous high-wire artists; Hugo Zacchini being shot from a giant cannon; and Jon Erbinias Tarzan in an unusual display of courage in a cage of lions.

Circus acts throughout the day, kiddie rides, train rides and a tour through Indian Village highlight the fun of Enchanted Forest.

LET'S TAKE A 2—

Fort Ticonderoga at Ticonderoga, N. Y. once controlled the water routes between Canada and the American Colonies, and was a strategic factor in the French and Indian and Revolutionary wars. In constant use between 1755 and 1777, the Fort has been faithfully reconstructed in harmony with original French plans. This year a number of new relics from the active period of the fort have been added to the Museum, which contains one of the finest collections of weapons, utensils, uniforms, historic paintings and papers dealing with the Colonial period to be found in America.

Pony Express

Frontiertown near Schroon Lake, N. Y., announced a major expansion program headed by a large cafeteria and restaurant center — with its own airstrip — visible and accessible from Exit 29 of the Northway. There's also a new Iron Mine tour, a new Adirondack Farmers' Museum, Pony-Express Ride for tots, a Buckeroo's Roundup and news programs of entertainment. Stagecoach rides, trail rides, Cavalry charges and Indian attacks are just a few examples of the thrills and action making Frontiertown one of the greatest Western-style attractions.

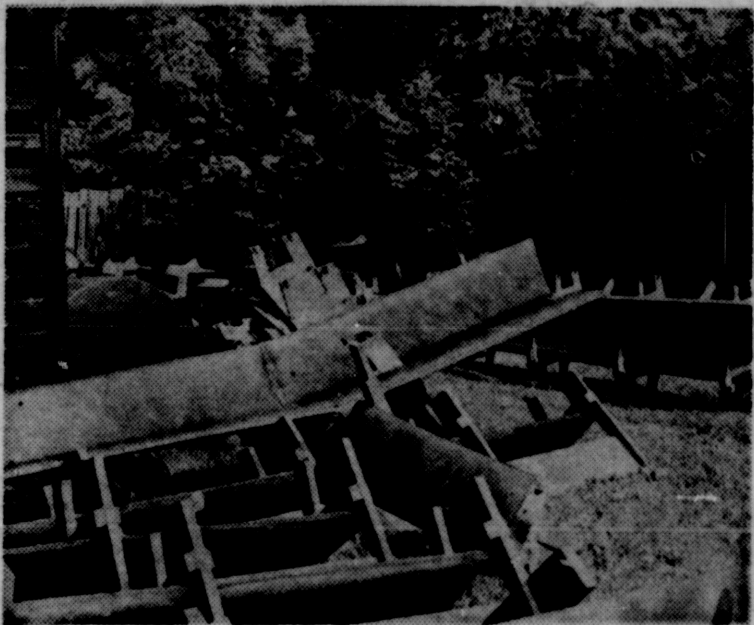

Gaslight Village, on Rt. 9 in Lake George village is the Gay Nineties center of the Adirondacks. A full-scale ice show is new for '68, along with a new live Meller-Drama gracing the footlights of the Opera House. Several new rides were installed this spring, including a unique old-fashioned bicycle ride. Gaslight Village has a period boardwalk with rides, fun-houses, and a museum of yesteryear. There's continuous entertainment with silent movies, variety acts and Meller-dramas all day long.

High Falls Gorge, in the scenic Wilmington Notch near Whiteface Mt. on Rt. 86, has expanded its unusual rock collection and spent time and effort this spring in widening and improving the footpaths through the Gorge. Visitors behold a great variety of geological formations, including strata, rapids, falls, and potholes.

Lake Champlain Scenicline Ferries cross beautiful Lake Champlain from New York to Vermont in three locations: Fort Kent N. Y. to Burlington, Vt., and return; Plattsburg, N. Y., to Grand Isle, Vt., and return; and Essex, N. Y., to Charlotte, Vt., and return. A new ferryboat has been added to the fleet this year, the third new craft in the last three years joining this popular and time-saving service. The new ferryboat carries 26 vehicles and their passengers plus foot traffic. These three scenic lake crossings save from 50 to 85 miles of driving for those headed for points across the water. They're also popular—just for the ride.

Y., to Grand Isle, Vt., and return; and Essex, N. Y., to Charlotte, Vt., and return. A new ferryboat has been added to the fleet this year, the third new craft in the last three years joining this popular and time-saving service. The new ferryboat carries 26 vehicles and their passengers plus foot traffic. These three scenic lake crossings save from 50 to 85 miles of driving for those headed for points across the water. They're also popular—just for the ride.

Television

In light of this week's assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy in California after his campaign there, it is not known as TEMPO goes to press whether "The Candidates Debate" will come off as scheduled. We're speaking of the unusual three-way debate planned between the three contenders for the Democratic Senatorial nomination in New York on WTEN TV. Unless it is cancelled, the debate calls for Nassau County Executive Eugene Nickerson, Paul O'Dwyer of New York City and Congressman Joseph Resnick of Ellenville to appear on a special program on Tuesday, June 11, from 10 to 10:30 p. m.

The program would also be carried simultaneously on WROW - TM - FM.

Resnick had earlier withdrawn from the debate when O'Dwyer and Nickerson refused to eliminate Vietnam as a subject. The Ellenville Democrat eventually changed his mind. It would seem, therefore, that the public will be better served, when and if the program comes off, by some debate than none at all, especially since it comes one week before the N. Y. State Primary. Nickerson identified with the late Kennedy, O'Dwyer with Sen. McCarthy, and Resnick with LBJ and Humphrey, should talk on Vietnam, civil rights, taxes and incumbent GOP Senator Jacob Javits.

Good Bad Guy

The anti-hero-hero—the bad guy working the same side of the street as the angels—must be a concept that stirs an impish response in most of us, though we rarely meet with him in real life and very seldom in "reel" life. That fact probably accounts for the great popularity being enjoyed by ABC's midseason adventure yarn, "It Takes a Thief," starring Robert Wagner. And the curious thing is that Wagner, who has been shackled throughout much of his career (he's a veteran of over 30 films) with boy-next-door roles, is proving himself a very capable, personable actor on the show.

Another TV series that continues to prosper is "The Big Valley," the hour-long saga of the Barclay clan, with matriarch Victoria Barclay as played by Barbara Stanwyck. Set in post Civil War days, the roaring home screen success moves into its fourth season on ABC. Much of the success of this one might be attributable to one major factor after the original casting and series concept good scripts. The story ideas seem well worked out months in advance, the scripts appear polished, and the episodes certainly have top guest stars and directors.

REFLECTIONS: With all their money, the Cartwrights of Bonanza fame don't change clothes much, do they? Those shirts are beginning to look awfully gamey. Some how it seems far more fitting that Buddy Hackett, the funny, irrepressible cherub, is now doing the situation comedy TV commercials for that potato chips firm. We couldn't help but feel it was in bad taste for the firm to continue the ads with Bert Lahr as its spokesman after his death. We're told that Americans in the not-too-distant future may be able to vote in local or national elections from their homes via TV and the results will flash immediately on the screen. It'll all be due to progress in electronics and three-dimensional video in the next two decades. Somehow we think we like the old way better. Seems unbelievable to us that Hugh Downs has, for the past 10 years between Tonight, Today and Concentration, been averaging some 575 hours on the air each year.

The week just past again proved that TV excels and performs remarkably in communicating news when it is required to act swiftly, surely, intelligently and in impeccable taste. The unforgettable events of Tuesday night and Wednesday morning in the Kennedy shooting and the aftermath that followed (for those, like us, who stayed awake throughout the tragedy) provided a personal and historic experience that only television is in a position to make.

Dieppe Again

Another program that moved us this week was the one in which the general starred—the general being Maj. Gen. C. Churchill Mann. A Canadian, he was one of the planners of the raid against the Nazi-held French coastal town of Dieppe—the raid that launched the Allied second front in Europe. And, in the TV special called "Rehearsal for D-Day," viewers came to realize what this bitter, real Dieppe rehearsal forecast for the Allies in terms of the terrible force they would have to overcome to free the continent.

MIREILLE MATHIEU, enchanting and youthful chanteuse, is one of the top-notch Continental stars who'll grace CBS' "Showtime" during the summer. The razzle-dazzle variety hour airs in the Red Skelton spot until fall. A weekly feature, Showtime's first curtain goes up next Tuesday, June 11, from 8:30 to 9:30 p.m. It's being billed as a fast-paced, full-hour variety show featuring stellar hosts and the cream of continental variety acts.

And, in retrospect, we also enjoyed Channel 17's "Creative Person" this week. Prolific French novelist and author of the famous "Inspector Maigret" detective stories, Georges Simenon, was the focal point. An author's legend at 65, Simenon has written nearly 500 novels in 45 years, 40 of which have been made into films. Cameras showed the author at home as ideas took root, stories picked up momentum, and writing was done in non-stop sessions.

TEMPO TV LISTINGS for best viewing bets in the week ahead would have to include:

Today, Sat., June 8

THE RACERS — CRAIG & LEE BREEDLOVE (ABC, 4 p.m.). A look at the famed husband-wife auto-racing team breaking records (he at 600.61 m.p.h.; she at 308.56 m.p.h.) on Utah's Bonneville Salt Flats and relaxing during off-track hours.

HELP WANTED (Channel 17, 10 p.m.) The purpose of the "Poor People's March" and the demand for 500,000 new jobs this year, and what the average citizen can do to help the situation, is explored in a live discussion with key poverty figures in Washington, New York and Boston.

Friday, June 14

THE ART GAME (NBC, 8:30 p.m.). Edwin Newman and Aline Saarinen in a news special reporting on the high-stakes arena of art-collecting, where money and status are king and the artist is the pawn. Gardner Gallery Reopens Again

The Gardner Gallery in Woodstock has opened for the four month summer season and plans call for a full program both in the gallery and on the grounds.

Three new artists have joined the list of exhibitors, including Lucile Blanch, Al Parke and K. White. The works of Lucile Blanch are well known for she has been a long-time summer studio resident of the art colony. Parke's versatility makes itself Woodstock and most of his work at the Gardner is representative of his interpretation of animals and birds. New member White brings a fresh style and sensitivity in the handling of his media.

B. Struveant Gardner, widely traveled owner-director of the gallery, is also showing her work which adds an international touch of sights and scenes to the environs.

Over the season, the sloping lawns of the grounds will be utilized by local organizations for outdoor entertainments. Two planned events will be a Mid-Hudson Madrigal Society concert on Aug. 4, and a performance by Robert Russell's creative drama group on Sept. 1.

Cantonment's Smoke-Filled Fete

The Brigade of the American Revolution, in its first visit of the 1968 season at the New Windsor Cantonment, Vails Gate, is holding its 11th National Firelock Matches this weekend.

The smoke of antique flintlock muskets will rise over Temple Hill as 16 re-activated units of the Revolution from seven states take part in the only display of authentic sustained firing of smooth bore flintlock muskets and rifles in the country.

Among those scheduled to take part, each in authentic

Revive 'Story'

The two leading players in the revival of "The West Side Story" by the Music Theater of Lincoln Center this summer will be unknowns, as was the case in the original Broadway production.

Producing director Richard Rodgers has chosen Victoria Mallory, 19, and Kurt Peterson, 20 to play Maria and Tony, the star-crossed lovers. This will mark their big-time debuts. The originals in the roles in 1957 were the then equally unknown Carol Lawrence and Larry Kert, who went on to stardom.

Welcomes Classes

The New York State Museum in Albany welcomes school classes. In fact, special courses can be arranged to fit the age and interests of each class. Teachers in TEMPO's reading area should be interested in taking advantage of this service; should ask ahead for a special lesson by contacting: New York State Museum, Albany, N.Y. 12224.

Individual Competition began this morning with the Seneca Run, a progressive target shoot. Each contestant must run about 400 yards, shooting at five targets. Competition will continue all day, with cease fire at 5 p.m.

Team competition between the Brigade units will be held tomorrow, Sunday, June 9, with a parade at noon. New realistic targets will be used. Contributing a martial note on each day will be music by massed fife and drums of the Brigade.

Gardner Gallery Reopens Again

The Gardner Gallery in Woodstock has opened for the four month summer season and plans call for a full program both in the gallery and on the grounds.

Three new artists have joined the list of exhibitors, including Lucile Blanch, Al Parke and K. White. The works of Lucile Blanch are well known for she has been a long-time summer studio resident of the art colony. Parke's versatility makes itself Woodstock and most of his work at the Gardner is representative of his interpretation of animals and birds. New member White brings a fresh style and sensitivity in the handling of his media.

B. Strutevant Gardner, widely traveled owner-director of the gallery, is also showing her work which adds an international touch of sights and scenes to the environs.

Over the season, the sloping lawns of the grounds will be utilized by local organizations for outdoor entertainments. Two planned events will be a Mid-Hudson Madrigal Society concert on Aug. 4, and a performance by Robert Russell's creative drama group on Sept. 1.

Two Bills for Bard

The season's final production of the Bard College Theatre of Drama and Dance is designed to produce the atmosphere, style, techniques and hang-ups of the New York and London cafe theatres. "Cafe Theatre, Six Plays from the New York Scene," is two bills of three one-act plays which will run alternate evenings tonight through June 11.

Opening tonight, June 8, are "Chicago," by Sam Shepard, directed by Eugene Elliott; "Hello Out There" by William Saroyan, directed by Micaela March; and "A Slight Ache," by Harold Pinter, directed by Will Rogers. These plays will be repeated on Monday evening, June 10.

Opening Sunday evening, June 9, are "The White Whore and the Bit Player," by Tom Eyen, directed by Rufus Botzow; "The Golden Bull of Boredom" by Lorees Yerby, directed by Eleanor Beale; and "The Collection," by Harold Pinter, directed by Kirk Williamson. This bill will be repeated Tuesday evening, June 11.

Admission to the Bard Theatre is free and all seats are reserved. For information about tickets call PL 8-8622 from 3 to 5 p. m. Curtain time is 8:30 p. m.

Cantonment's Smoke-Filled Fete

The Brigade of the American Revolution, in its first visit of the 1968 season at the New Windsor Cantonment, Vails Gate, is holding its 11th National Firelock Matches this weekend.

The smoke of antique flintlock muskets will rise over Temple Hill as 16 re-activated units of the Revolution from seven states take part in the only display of authentic sustained firing of smooth bore flintlock muskets and rifles in the country.

Among those scheduled to take part, each in authentic-style uniforms of the period, are: The Corps of Light Infantry, the 3rd N.Y. Regiment, Knowlton's Rangers, Morgan's Rifle Company, the 1st Maryland Regiment, the 3rd N. J. Regiment, Bergen County Militia, Steven's Independent Battery, Lamb's Artillery Musket Team, the 1st Penn. Regiment and the Illinois Company.

Individual Competition began this morning with the Seneca Run, a progressive target shoot. Each contestant must run about 400 yards, shooting at five targets. Competition will continue all day, with cease fire at 5 p.m.

Team competition between the Brigade units will be held tomorrow, Sunday, June 9, with a parade at noon. New realistic targets will be used. Contributing a martial note on each day will be music by massed fife and drums of the Brigade.

Revive 'Story'

The two leading players in the revival of "The West Side Story" by the Music Theater of Lincoln Center this summer will be unknowns, as was the case in the original Broadway production.

Producing director Richard Rodgers has chosen Victoria Mallory, 19, and Kurt Peterson, 20 to play Maria and Tony, the star-crossed lovers. This will mark their big-time debuts. The originals in the roles in 1957 were the then equally unknown Carol Lawrence and Larry Kert, who went on to stardom.

Welcomes Classes

The New York State Museum in Albany welcomes school classes. In fact, special courses can be arranged to fit the age and interests of each class. Teachers in TEMPO's reading area should be interested in taking advantage of this service; should ask ahead for a special lesson by contacting: New York State Museum, Albany, N.Y. 12224.

IN ORDER TO SURVIVE with her baby while her husband is in prison, Carol White, who co-stars with Terence Stamp in "Poor Cow," is forced to become a model in near-undress for amateur photographers who don't bother to put film in their cameras. Scene is from the movie currently showing at the Mayfair Theatre here.

LEE MARVIN fires a parting round as his squad escapes from a German-occupied chateau in MGM's "The Dirty Dozen." Taut World War II adventure has been re-released; is now playing at the 9-W Drive-In along with "A Patch of Blue," the touching drama in which Sidney Poitier forms a friendship with a blind white girl.

YVES MONTAND and Candice Bergen share an ill-starred love affair in "Live For Life," the French drama now on screen at Woodstock's Tinker Street Cinema.

MOVIES

POOR COW. Married to one petty thief and in love with another, forced from time to time to support herself and her baby in any way possible, a young girl faces a seamy existence in an English slum. Sounds pretty soap operaish, right? Wrong. It's anything but since realism and struggle are abruptly emphasized in this movie.

The film begins with a young woman in labor in an English slum and the camera focuses on the birth of an infant. At age 18, Joy (Carol White) marries Tom, who has made her pregnant. She doesn't love him, but puts up with him and takes his profession of burglary as a matter of course. When he's sent to prison, she has a brief idyllic time with another thief (Terence Stamp) until he, too, gets a long jail sentence.

To earn a living for her small son and herself, she becomes a barmaid, and a model for pornographic photographs. When husband's sentence is over, she lives with him as a matter of expedience, but continues to dream about a rosy future in which she and her lover will be reunited.

The tone of Poor Cow's drama is as sordid as its slum heroine's promiscuity is glimpsed rather than stressed, her indiscriminate sex drive permeates dialogue and episodes. But there is no denying that Carol White gives an appealing portrayal of the amoral but warm-hearted heroine — a devoted mother, a girl with a capacity for love, more sinned against than sinning. Terence Stamp is fine in the role of the man for whom she yearns, and vignette roles by a splendid British cast are sharp and telling.

HALF A SIXPENCE. Lively Tommy Steele is the center of attraction in this lavish period English musical. Based on Steele's stage triumph of the same name (and that, in turn, on H. G. Wells' novel "Kipps"), Sixpence is a jolly, jolly cinema romance that tells a simple story set in Edwardian England.

And the movie is flamboyantly colorful, full of misty lights and rosy tints and brilliant prisms and filtered images. And it moves, moves, moves. Hardly anyone holds still for a second and someone is constantly bursting into improbable song. Steele (a former British 'rock 'n roll singer and, most recently, a butler in Walt Disney's "The Happiest Millionaire") is the most active of all. A totally professional performer, he smiles constantly and turns on the charm with ferocious jauntiness.

If it's all very gay, lavish and exuberant, it cannot be taken seriously because it makes no concession to the real world, and its music makes no concession to anything that has happened in the music field in several decades.

Steele is an orphan boy, apprenticed as a draper's assistant to a Scrooge-like dry goods merchant. He falls in love with a chambermaid (Julia Foster), comes into a fortune, nearly marries a rich girl, marries the chambermaid to whom he had given a half sixpence as a token of his love, loses the fortune and lives happily ever after.

An improbable plot at best in the 1960's even though it is sometimes visually fascinating. Nothing so lavish or expensive has been produced in film since the supposedly spectacular Busby Berkeley musicals of the '30s and, for this reason, Sixpence often seems too trite and too out of touch with the world of today and its music.

Still, it's pretty to look at what with all those harlequins, carousels, balloons, chorus girls, landscapes, castles, antique cars and regattas the effervescent Tommy encounters in the course of the story.

THE DIRTY DOZEN. This story of misfits turned into heroes, and packing a terrific punch, has been around before. Still, since it gives us Lee Marvin (one of our all-time favorites) and an all-star cast . . . and since it unfolds a spell-binding story of a remarkable mission taking place behind enemy lines in France in World War II, we're willing to give it another pat on the back.

Now playing at the 9W Drive-In here, Dozen is sometimes violent but always exciting and, to us, it seems one of the most interesting films about the brutalizing effects of war to come out of Hollywood in many years.

If you are not familiar with the story, it has to do with the gathering together of a small group of oddballs and eightballs, men unsuited to conventional military service, and their training for a special mission behind enemy lines. If the men are unsavory to begin with, their mission is even more so. The Dozen are all all scraped out of a military prison where some are under death sentences and the rest are serving long terms for assorted assaults, murders and rapes. A psychopathic crew to say the least—but interesting, very interesting.

The job they are training to do is unconventional (even for war) and morally indecent. They must murder in cold blood a chateau full of high-ranking German officers and their wives and girlfriends. The slaughter is accomplished in a stomach-turning manner, and the innocents die along with the vicious and the guilty.

This is strong stuff but it is not without its message. The Dozen should teach mankind caution and should warn us of what can happen to the conventional morality in time of stress.

The question is: does it and has it . . . or have most audiences viewed it only as a slam-bang action tale?

LIVE FOR LIFE. Brought to us by the same director who gave us A Man and a Woman, this French drama has Yves Montand playing a famous, bored lecherous TV reporter. He sees his marriage to his aging wife (Annie Girardot) as tender but unexciting and on journeys for stories to the Congo or the Orient, he is unfaithful. Eventually, he sacrifices his home for a mistress, a beautiful, blank American model (Candice Bergen).

The idyll was Candy (who's dandy for looks but not much else) leads to the old ennui and feelings of guilt for Montand and off he goes to Vietnam on assignment. After he's listed as missing, wife and mistress separately recall the husband-lover who may be dead in monologue performances. But dead he's not and in the end, he returns to his wife.

What's interesting about this film, now playing at Woodstock's Tinker Street Cinema is that the love story and the reporter's involvement with the violent world around him bring varied backgrounds alive with intensity. The photography is excellent when it focuses on Paris, Switzerland, Amsterdam, the jungles of Africa, the bloody horrors of Vietnam. If there is social significance in this film in which men must wander and women weep, it is in the director's editorializing on the war. The reporter's musing make the director's views all too readily apparent. (REVIEWED BY TOBIE GEERTSEMA).

Hoffman's Next

NEW YORK (UPI)—Dustin Hoffman, the off-Broadway actor who stirred up so much excitement this year as the star of "The Graduate" motion picture, will return to the New York stage next season.

Claire Nichtern and Zev Bufman announced he has been signed to star in "Jimmy Shine," a new play by Murray Schisgal which the producers plan to present on Broadway in December.

The work is described as a play with music, with the songs being supplied by Paul Simon of the popular singing team of Simon and Garfunkel.

Hoffman currently is in New York working on his second film, "The Midnight Cowboy."

An Emergency Call Leads to New Skill

Photographs by Joan E. Doyle are now on exhibit at Phoenixia Library. The collection, featuring a number of scenes in Shandaken Township, is remarkable for the reason that Miss Doyle took her first picture only one short year ago. Since then, she has not only mastered the camera but also the mysteries of the dark-room and the artistry of mounting; all completely self-taught.

Joan Doyle came to Shandaken with her family in 1938. She remembers the 3-room school in Phoenixia and the "best teacher I ever had, Miss Mary Gormley." A graduate of Kingston High School, she later studied at the Art Students League. Communications has been her field; first with WKNY in Kingston, then with St. Francis Hospital in Poughkeepsie as Director of Public Relations and Personnel, and currently as a jack of all trades for the Dutchess Suburban Newspapers. It was an emergency call for a photographer which added this skill to Miss Doyle's abilities as a compositor and feature writer.

Her photographs include several landmarks in Phoenixia; the Old Globe Hotel, for one, showing the inscription, Dry Goods & Groceries which is no longer visible to the naked eye. Another old-timer, which will be vanishing with the coming of New Phoenixia Bridge, is the "McGrath Bridge." As a freelance photographer, she has done work for the Hudson Valley Philharmonic, notably in this group, her Guitar Players. She has also photographed ballet artists in many stages of development for the American Conservatory of Ballet in Poughkeepsie.

Her enthusiasm for photography as a means of communication is unbounded. As she herself expresses it, "The camera has me really hooked." Two more shows are planned; one on Dutchess County, the other featuring the work of the American Conservatory of Ballet.

The public is cordially invited to see this show during regular Library hours: Monday, 2 to 5 p.m.; Tuesday, 6:30 to 9 p.m.; Thursday, 6:30 to 9 p.m.; Saturday, 1 to 4 p.m.

Silk Screening At Tatra Prints

Instruction in Silk Screen Printing will be given this year by W.J. Jerominek, famed artistcraftsman of Tatra Prints, Woodstock. The classes, starting on June 17th, will be for both beginning and advanced students. Each course of two weeks will include instruction in screen-making, stencil cutting, photo stencil, glue-resist, and other methods. Students may register on either a five day per week basis or two day a week basis.

More and more artists are beginning to recognize and utilize the unique potentialities of making serigraphs, or silk screen prints, Jerominek says. The striking graphic qualities, the unlimited color range, and the ease of running an edition separates screen printing from other printing techniques, he notes.

To register or for further information call or write to: TATRA PRINTS, 29 Mill Stream Road, Woodstock, N.Y. 12498.

Musicals From Novel and Play

It seems that every day someone pops up with an announcement for still another musical based on some well-known novel or play.

Bruce W. Stark and Arthur A. Seidelman have announced plans to produce a musical based on Herman Melville's novel, "Billy Budd," which also was a Broadway drama some years ago. Robert Upton is the librettist for this tale of an early 19th century naval mutiny. Ronald Dante is the composer and Gene Allan is the lyricist.

Veteran producer Leland Hayward has commissioned Jule

Styne and Sammy Cahn, two of the most successful of theater songwriters, to do the score for a musical version of "The Petrified Forest," the 1935 Broadway hit by the late Robert E. Sherwood. That was the play in which Humphrey Bogart's playing in the role of a hunted desperado catapulted him to his subsequent motion picture career.

HUVREP States

August Shows

There's good news for Hudson Valley Repertory Theatre fans this week. HUVREP will continue its operations into the summer months with an experimental theatre workshop and present plans call for performances by this promising group during late August.

The announcement for continuing operations of the newly established regional theatre in this area came from Harold Baldrige, artistic director, and M. Edgar Rosenblum, executive director. Work is already in progress, they said, for an Experimental Theatre Workshop geared to come up with one or two new plays during the summer.

From this workshop, hopefully, will come full production presentations in the following season.

REP CLASSES

So highly successful have been the classes and scene classes of the Hudson Valley Repertory Theatre, under the direction of Harold Baldrige, that the fourth session of these classes is beginning now.

These 10-week sessions are open to children and adults, whether amateurs or professionals, and consist of five scene workshops, directed by Baldrige; three actor-classroom sessions with a leading member of the area acting company; and two production workshops with M. Edgar Rosenblum, HUVREP's executive director.

Those interested in joining this professional school, or obtaining more detailed information on tuition and scholarships available, should contact the box office of the Woodstock Playhouse by telephone.

An Emergency Call Leads to New Skill

Photographs by Joan E. Doyle are now on exhibit at Phoenixia Library. The collection, featuring a number of scenes in Shandaken Township, is remarkable for the reason that Miss Doyle took her first picture only one short year ago. Since then, she has not only mastered the camera but also the mysteries of the dark-room and the artistry of mounting; all completely self-taught.

Joan Doyle came to Shandaken with her family in 1938. She remembers the 3-room school in Phoenixia and the "best teacher I ever had, Miss Mary Gormley." A graduate of Kingston High School, she later studied at the Art Students League. Communications has been her field; first with WKNY in Kingston, then with St. Francis Hospital in Poughkeepsie as Director of Public Relations and Personnel, and currently as a jack of all trades for the Dutchess Suburban Newspapers. It was an emergency call for a photographer which added this skill to Miss Doyle's abilities as compositor and feature writer.

Her photographs include several landmarks in Phoenixia; the Old Globe Hotel, for one, showing the inscription, Dry Goods & Groceries which is no longer visible to the naked eye. Another old-timer, which will be vanishing with the coming of New Phoenixia Bridge, is the "McGrath Bridge." As a freelance photographer, she has done work for the Hudson Valley Philharmonic, notably in this group, her Guitar Players. She has also photographed ballet artists in many stages of development for the American Conservatory of Ballet in Poughkeepsie.

Her enthusiasm for photography as a means of communication is unbounded. As she herself expresses it, "The camera has me really hooked." Two more shows are planned; one on Dutchess County, the other featuring the work of the American Conservatory of Ballet.

The public is cordially invited to see this show during regular Library hours: Monday, 2 to 5 p.m.; Tuesday, 6:30 to 9 p.m.; Thursday, 6:30 to 9 p.m.; Saturday, 1 to 4 p.m.

Silk Screening At Tatra Prints

Instruction in Silk Screen Printing will be given this year by W.J. Jerominek, famed artistcraftsman of Tatra Prints, Woodstock. The classes, starting on June 17th, will be for both beginning and advanced students. Each course of two weeks will include instruction in screen-making, stencil cutting, photo stencil, glue-resist, and other methods. Students may register on either a five day per week basis or two day a week basis.

More and more artists are beginning to recognize and utilize the unique potentialities of making serigraphs, or silk screen prints, Jerominek says. The striking graphic qualities, the unlimited color range, and the ease of running an edition separates screen printing from other printing techniques, he notes.

Musicals From Novel and Play

It seems that every day someone pops up with an announcement for still another musical based on some well-known novel or play.

Bruce W. Stark and Arthur A. Seidelman have announced plans to produce a musical based on Herman Melville's novel, "Billy Budd," which also was a Broadway drama some years ago. Robert Upton is the librettist for this tale of an early 19th century naval mutiny. Ronald Dante is the composer and Gene Allan is the lyricist.

Veteran producer Leland Hayward has commissioned Jule

Styne and Sammy Cahn, two of the most successful of theater songwriters, to do the score for a musical version of "The Petrified Forest," the 1935 Broadway hit by the late Robert E. Sherwood. That was the play in which Humphrey Bogart's playing in the role of a hunted desperado catapulted him to his subsequent motion picture career.

HUVREP Stages August Shows

There's good news for Hudson Valley Repertory Theatre fans this week. HUVREP will continue its operations into the summer months with an experimental theatre workshop and present plans call for performances by this promising group during late August.

The announcement for continuing operations of the newly established regional theatre in this area came from Harold Baldrige, artistic director, and M. Edgar Rosenblum, executive director. Work is already in progress, they said, for an Experimental Theatre Workshop geared to come up with one or two new plays during the summer.

ELECTRIC LIVING GUIDE

The Kids Have X-Ray Eyes

He doesn't always like to right here and now. It's total admit it, a veteran realtor electric living for one thing. confides, but he's learned a And there's plenty of grow- lot from today's "kids" — his power built in. Along with own included — and likes to the heavy duty wiring and all deal with them. ("Kids" in the circuits you need for right now, there are enough extra circuits to take care of things you'll want in the future that haven't even been invented yet.

"They seem to have x-ray eyes. They're sharp as witch hazel rods at divining good wood and brasses under a paint-abused old chest. And they have infinite patience about the bleaching, the oiling, the lacquering, the what-ever.

"But no tolerance at all for things that don't work. That's why so many 'first home' couples around here demand complete electrical heating systems. They've seen through the streamlining that covers up brand-new but basically old-style heating systems."

He says, "I welcome these informed customers. People who tell you what they want and who are delighted that you can supply it. They tell their friends who are in the market . . . and one sale leads to another for me. Of course, when it's a Gold medallion home that's changing hands I can be sure of what I'm promising. That's really world-of-tomorrow living

"The kids — at least mine and some of their crowd — go for a muddle of periods with the furnishings — very tasteful, too — but at the heart of the house they demand the best (and the most) in electrical equipment from the heating system to the knife sharpener."

And as an aside he adds "With most of them, I find they've figured out all around what makes a house work. Foyers, for instance, are in favor again, at least around here. "Great bottle-neck eliminators . . . keeps the traffic flowing, you might say." "It's that Gold Medallion standard, of course, that matters the most. Everything works. And lasts. It's an investment that keeps paying off. In comfort if you stay put — and in good re-sale prospects if you move away."

QUESTION BOX

Question: What exactly does

Gold Medallion refer to: a type of electric wiring, or a special type of electric heating?

Answer: It's comprehensive and includes not just heavy house-power wiring and electric heating (a choice of types, by the way) but a mandatory and optional list of appliances . . . and standards of insulation as well. The latter are spelled out to cover an infinite variety of architectural details as well as being keyed to the varying climate zones of the United States.

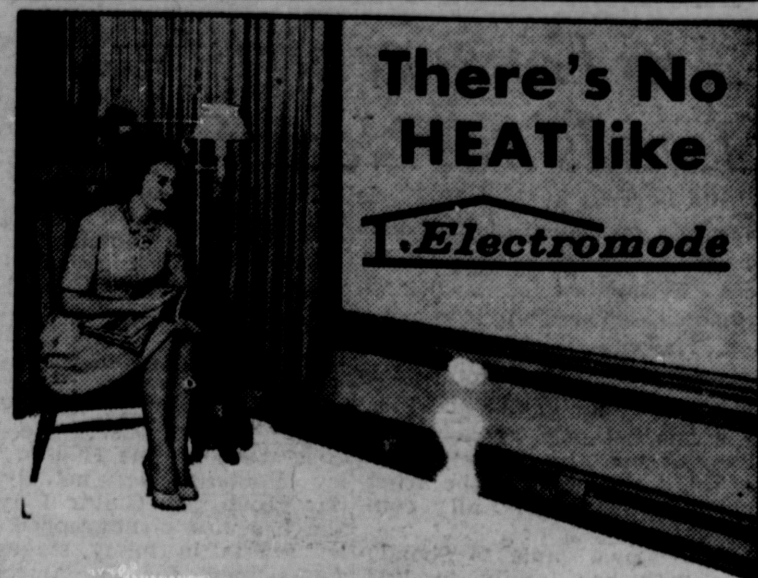

Incidentally, actual inspection of the completed building is necessary before it becomes official "Gold Medallion." This is an actual tangible award. There's a real "medallion" which you can tack up as-is outside the house. Or you can have it worked into a door knocker, a door-bell, maybe a mud scraper. Then there's the business end. The certification which you're advised to affix to your deed and put in safe keeping.

Question: How can we know if a house is or isn't up to snuff electrically? We're shopping around, looking at old houses as well as new. We do want electric heating.

Answer: You're fool-proof assurance, of course, is a Gold Medallion Home. The local utility company has certified it as fulfilling all the requirements.

As to what you should keep your eye out for in a non Gold Medallion model, we quote the advice of the Edison Electric Institute: "To find out if a house is really equipped for modern electrical living you could inspect the lighting, count the electrical outlets and switches, check the appliances that come with it . . ." But, cautions the Institute, you'll just have to ask about the heavy housepower situation, it's not a thing you can see. However, since you're aiming for electric heating already installed, you know the wiring in that department is modern.
